PA NEWC OBSERVES

Quite a difference is shown between the temperature last night and that of a year ago. A year ago, the thermometer went down to 49 degrees, while last night it stood at 69 degrees, a difference of twenty points.

The weather man tried hard to stir up a little rain to cool off the parched earth yesterday afternoon and evening, but the best he could squeeze out of the clouds was a few scattered drops.

Imagine driving an auto into a cemetery and then having the car go dead, so that it had to be towed out. It happened last night, according to a report received by Pa Newc.

By the way, what happened to the street that New Castle was to receive in return for the privileges granted the Harmony last summer, when the tracks were abandoned on Butler avenue and inside the city?

At the North Highland baseball field last night, there was an unusual climax. Three pinch hitters were substituted in a row by North Highland in the last inning and as fast as they appeared they struck out. North Highland was playing Hillsville.

Pa Newc observed a woman going along the street in an automobile last evening, fanning herself vigorously.

Just the other night the car of John B. Waddington, Albert Street,

THREE CARS IN CRASH ON ELLWOOD CITY ROAD

Three people were hurt and two automobiles almost totally demolished Wednesday evening about ten thirty on the Ellwood road, near the Harmony Baptist church, when Leroy Mumford attempted to pass a bus. In pulling out from behind the bus, his car crashed into that of Ray Campbell, and as the crash occurred a third car driven by H. Marcus crashed into the Campbell car. Mumford and Marcus are from New Castle, Campbell from Ellwood City.

Francis Campbell a young son of Frank Campbell who was a passenger in the car of Ray Campbell was cut about the legs, H. Marcus was cut about the legs and body, and Ray Campbell had a badly skinned nose as the result of the accident. Mumford's explanation was that his brakes wouldn't work as he came down the grade.

The cars of Campbell and Marcus were jammed together and resisted the efforts of a score of men to pry them apart. A wrecker was called and even this had difficulty in prying them loose. The Campbell car was a new car, having but 2600 miles on it and was wrecked almost beyond hope of repair.

Constable Howell J. Jenkins of Ellwood City happened along the road at the time and seeing the accident took charge of the situation until the State Highway Patrolman arrived. The Campbell boy and Mr. Marcus were taken to the hospital in New Castle, where their wounds were dressed.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Al Capone, once czar of gangland, faces a longer prison sentence than he expected.

That was indicated today when he stood smiling before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson ready to receive sentence on his plea of guilty to charges of violating the income and prohibition laws.

ALLEGED AUTO THIEF ARRESTED AFTER HOLDUP

Captured After He Gets Gasoline And Oil At Point Of Gun At Leesburg

Peter Sando, 17, of Wilkinsburg, who is alleged to have stolen the car in which he was riding Wednesday afternoon, at Leesburg, when he forced J. M. Anderson, who conducts a service statiion at that place, to give him ten gallons of gasoline and two quarts of oil at the point of a gun, was captured ten minutes later at Mercer by Private Mazza, state police officer stationed at Mercer.

The young man and a companion drove up to the Anderson service station about four o'clock Eastern Standard Time in the Auburn Sedan, which was later discovered to have been stolen in Pittsburgh, and asked for ten gallons of gasoline and two quarts of oil. When this had been provided, Mr. Anderson went to the driver for the money and was told by the driver, Sando, that he did not have any money and how would he like to take "that"s as the driver pointed the business end of an automatic revolver at Mr. Anderson.

Nothing daunted, Mr. Anderson picked up an oil bottle and let it fly at Sando as he was driving away, just barely missing him, Mr. Anderson then called his son Taylor Anderson, who notified state police headquarters at Mercer, and it was only a few minutes later that Sando and the machine were in custody as Sando drove into that place.

According to the information from Pittsburgh, Sando went into the Auburn sales agency in Pittsburgh yesterday and stated that his father was thinking of buying a machine and asked for a demonstration. Harry Hahn, a salesman started out with Sando and when they reached the William Penn Highway, Sando is alleged to have flashed a gun on Hahn, forced him out of the car and to have driven away with it. His trip ended at Mercer.

Mine Killer To Go To Farview

Mercer County Court Orders Insane Man Taken To Asylum

WILL BE TAKEN AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

(Special To The News)

MERCER, Pa., July 30.—Following the findings of the Commission in Lunacy which examined Marco Demofonti, miner-killer of Mine Number Two, Judge J. A. McLaughry signed an order on Thursday afternoon which commits Demofonti to the Hospital for the Criminal Insane in Farview, Wayne County, Pa.

The findings of Drs. Hope and Richardson, which declared Demofonti insane were expected. For a man ordinarily a peaceful citizen to suddenly turn killer and murder five people and wound three more would seem to be an evidence of insanity and the court lost little time in carrying out the recommendation that Demofonti be sent away.

His removal is a matter of doubt at this time. He is still confined to bed suffering from the wounds inflicted when George Masters, storekeeper at Mine Number Two risked his own life to bring Demofonti down. Had it not been for the courageous action of Masters, Demofonti might have made good his threat to "wipe out Number Two."

Tony Ciciliani and Mrs. Mike Bonnani and her daughter Flora are still confined to the Mercer Hospital but will probably be released within the near future. They were wounded by the madman but fortunately the wounds were not in a vital spot.

It was believed the victim suffered a sudden heart attack before she was drowned. The body was recovered by Theodore Ball, of Greenville, after an hour's search.

"WORM" CURIOSITY INTERESTS STATE STREET COMMUNITY

A 16-legged entomoligical curiosity has aroused the interest of many residents of State street, where the "worm" was discovered this morning in a back yard lawn by E. C. Welkenbach of 819 State street.

The "worm" resembles a caterpillar in appearance, and but for its giant size would have been mistaken for a caterpillar. It is about five inches long. The body diameter is about three quarters of an inch. The color of the curiosity is an olive green. Attached to the body are minute particles of orange, black and yellow in a symmetrical arrangement.

Virtually wing to wing, these two planes reached the open sea, out from New York, in the first trans-Atlantic race in aviation history. The New York-to-Turkey monoplane with Russell Boardman and John Polando aboard, landed at Constantinople while the round-the-world ship, piloted by Clyde E. Pangborn and Hugh Herndon, was forced to land in Wales. Both planes are of the same type and have approximately the same cruising speed. Both airplanes took off from Floyd Bennett Field.

Fliers Drop Mail On Paris Field Enroute To Turkey

Attaches Of Le Bourget Field Are Given Thrill By Trans-Atlantic Fliers

(International News Service)

LE BOURGET AIRFIELD, PARIS, July 30.—Attaches of the LeBourget airfield, which is a military aerodrome, were given a thrill today when they discovered that Russell Boardman and John Polando, American trans-Atlantic fliers, had left a "calling card" on Le Bourget field.

Although a close watch had been maintained throughout yesterday and last night for the New York-to-Istanbul plane "Cape Cod", nothing was seen or heard of the plane in its passing over France. But this morning an attache of the field found a package lying on the field which had been dropped by parachute from Boardman's plane.

The package contained a New York newspaper dated July 25 and a letter dated July 26, addressed to the mayor of Paris. Attached to the package was a card reading: "Package dropped by Boardman, pilot of the airplane Cape Cod.

Discover 22 Trees Along Road Of Remembrance Killed With Kerosene

One of the most reprehensible pieces of vandalism turned up in some time in this county has been uncovered on the Perry Highway, north of Harlansburg on that section of the road known as "The Road of Remembrance," planted with American elms by the Lawrence County Garden Club. Twenty two trees bordering the land of J. G. Kissick have been killed by the application of kerosene oil it is reported and an investigation has been started by the Department of Highways with a view to entering criminal prosecution against the vandal.

Sometime ago Wesley L. Hottenstein, tree expert of the highway department, noticed that the trees were not developing as they should. Believing that they were merely held back a little he thought nothing of it at the time. With the warmer weather the trees in question still showed no signs of life and an investigation was made. This resulted in the finding that kerosene oil had been used to kill off the trees, he reports.

Represent Sacrifice

Aside from the actual destruction of the trees there is a sentimental value to the "Road of Remembrance" that is found on no other piece of highay. These trees, all prize specimens of American elms were paid for by the women of the Garden Club, and the trees themselves were to act as a living, growing memorial to the heroism of the men and women of Lawrence county who gave their lives in the World War.

To say that the women of the Garden Club are annoyed at the action would be misstating the fact. Their feelings have been outraged and they are having signs erected along the road which read "$100 reward offered by the Lawrence County Garden Club for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person or persons causing damage to any tree or trees along this "Road of Remembrance." The signs are being prepared now and will be placed in a few days.

Up To Lewis

Upon completing his investigation Mr. Hottenstein took the matter up with Walter D. Ludwig, an official of the highway department and he in turn is presenting the matter to Samuel S. Lewis the secretary of the department and some drastic action is expected if the culprit is found out.

Already some leads have been secured in the case and suspicions point to a person thought to have been responsible for the outrageous act. With sufficient evidence to present to a grand jury, arrests will be made and nothing left undone to land the guilty person behind bars.

In the meantime the Department of Highways is preparing to replace each tree destroyed with one of the same type, and to make arrangement to watch the entire row of trees in an effort to catch any future vandals who attempt to destroy them.

C. Ed Brown and Clayton S. Reeves are in DuBois today, where they are attending a shrine ceremony.

New Castle Descendants Of Hero In Perry Fleet At Monument Dedication

Alderman O. H. P. Green, wife, and sisters, Mrs. Joseph Pyle and Mrs. Robert H. Whaley, and the latter's daughter, Alice, left this morning for Put-in-Bay, to attend the dedication of a monument to Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry, whose naval exploits on Lake Erie during the war of 1812, are a matter of history.

Alderman Green, Mrs. Pyle and Mrs. Whaley, are direct decendants of Thomas Green, one of the heroes of Commodore Perry's fleet. When Perry's ship was fired and had to be abandoned during an engagement with the British, Thomas Green left the burning ship with Commodore Perry and two others, Green rowing a small boat to another battleship on which they took refuge. For this act of bravery Green was awarded a medal in 1920.

Thomas Green was the father of Captain O. H. P. Green, a pioneer limestone operator and manufacturer of New Castle, and the father of Alderman O. H. P. Green, Mrs. Pyle and Mrs. Whaley.

Alderman Green took with him the medal which the government awarded to his grandfather, Thomas Green. It will no doubt be an object of interest at the dedication of the monument.

It is probable that Alderman Green, Mrs. Pyle and Mrs. Whaley are as close a relationship with a member of the Perry fleet, as any person who will be present at the dedication.

The Perry monument was erected some 15 years ago, but has never been formally dedicated. Hundreds of New Castle people have visited the monument, and are familiar with the traditions surrounding the spot where it is located.

American Plane Which Reached Turkey In Air For Over 49 Hours

By DAVID P. SENTNER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Today was a flaming red letter day in aviation history with flying achievements concluded or underway.

Topping it all was the hanging high in the sky of a new-long-distance flying record by Russell Boardman and John Polando who landed in Constantinople completing their 5,000-odd mile non-stop jump from New York.

The flying team of Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn who left New York in their round-the-world plane only seventeen minutes behind the Boardman-Polando ship hopped off from London in their flying shot at the Post and Gatty world-girdling mark. Their plane "Miss Veedol" first stopped in the village of Moyle Grove Wales, after crossing the ocean.

Istanbul, Turkey, July 30.—Dropping unexpectdly out of fog-laden skies, Russell Boardman and John Polando, veteran American airmen, landed their plane at this ancient capital (formerly Constantinople) of the Sultans today, claiming a new worlds record for long distance nonstop flying.

"We are happy to have set a new record for long-distance flying," Boardman told International News Service a few moments after the landing.

"We had a good crossing, and are particularly pleased that the flight took only a little more than 49 hours. The warm reception accorded us here was gratifying and thrilling.

"Tomorrow we will go on to Angora. In the meantime, a little sleep is the chief item on the program."

Unreported since they cut across the southern part of Newfoundland and headed out over the great circle course ten hours after taking off from Floyd Bennett airport, Brooklyn, N. Y., the airmen virtually had been given up for lost. They had been in the air 49 hours and 18 minutes when they set their plane

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., July 30.—Been reading of our army survey of a new canal by Col. Dan Sultan, but what you haven't read is the wonderful work that he and his crew did during the Nicaragua earthquake.

He moved in with his whole outfit, among which were some splendid doctors and they worked day and night there. They and the marines were in the right place at the right time that time.

He explained the canal to me down there. Folks that like to dig canals, there is a good place to dig.

One there cost $700,000,000, but Lord, the way we are going, what's $700,000,000 in hock for us.

We are sunk anyhow, so let's get a series of canals, then save the best one.

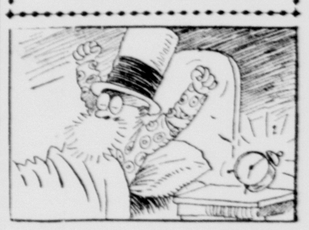
Arthur Mometer



He's not a Forty Niner for he isn't near that old, and he never joined the motley crew that searched the west for gold. The gold he got he had to dig by working hard at home, and that explains the reason why he had no time to roam. But he is a Forty Niner for its just that long today, since he started on the paper on a job with little pay. But he had two hands and lots of health and grit and heaps of vim, and the forty nine years he's been here don't seem that long to him. The lad I mean, so you will know, and saying it is brief, is just the chap who runs the ranch, the one we know as Chief. Just forty nine short years ago he started up the line, and today he's still hard on the job, the weather's eighty-nine.

New Trial Is Refused Port In Arson Case

Judge Hildebrand Hands Down Opinion On Burning Of Merriman House

HOLD DEFENDANT HAD FAIR TRIAL

In an opinion handed down today Judge R. L. Hildebrand refused a new trial in the case of the commonwealth against Frank Port, convicted of arson in connection with the burning of the Rhoda Merriman property on the New Castle-Ellwood road.

In reviewing the case Judge Hildebrand finds that there were two mortgages on the house burned. One, on which there was a balance of $3300 was held by the State Capital Loan Association and the other for $1100 by Frank Port. The property was insured for $5000, the policy being made payable first to the loan association, and later the name of Port was added as second mortgagee. Payments on the first mortgage were in arrears $300.

The loan associatioin took up the matter with Port, and suggested that he pay up the arrearages and take a deed from Mrs. Merriman for the property. A representative of the association secured a deed from Mrs. Merriman with the name of the grantee in blank.

It was not disclosed at the trial that Port knew that he would be a beneficiary under the insurance policy. He claimed that he did not know it.

On the night of February 11, 1930 at 11:10 three men were driving from Ellwood City toward New Castle, when they saw fire in the Merriman house, which at the time was unoccupied. Stopping they found a car parked in the driveway leading to the house and facing toward the road. There were three men near it. They claimed that they were fixing a flat tire. They were doing nothing toward putting out the fire. One of the men said there had been an explosion in the house.

Looking in a window one of the men coming from Ellwood saw a five gallon can in the center of the dining room. It was afterwards found in the ruins of the building. The three men who had been coming from Ellwood went for help. Those whose car had been parked in the driveway drove out, going toward New Castle. The license plate on the car which drove away was taken and led to the arrest of Port and one, Hasbash, who admitted that they were two of the men whose car had been parked near the house. Port in his own defense, testified that he and Hasbash and a man named Roscoe had gone to the house, because it had been learned that thieves had been stealing the plumbing. Port said he entered by a side door with a skeleton key and struck a match, which was immediately followed by an explosion. This was corroborated by Hasbash. They said that they had left because they were frightened, fearing that they would be accused of setting the house on fire. Port denied any intention to burn the house.

There was a septic connection to the house and it figured in the trial on the theory that it may have been sewer gas, which caused the explosion, but there was no definite testimony that there was sewer gas. Port claimed that he would have no motive in burning the building.

The court finds that a review of the evidence fails to convince that anything would be gained by a new trial. It is held that Port had a fair and impartial trial, and that the verdict was warranted by the evidence.

AMERICAN PAIR LAND PLANE AT CONSTANTINOPLE

"Cape Cod" down here after flying more than 5,000 miles through storm and fog.

Make New Record.

By hitting Istanbul "on the nose" at the end of their long and hazardous journey, Boardman and Polando were believed to have bettered by more than 100 miles the last previous long-distance record, set by the French airmen, Captain Dieudonne Coste and Lieutenant Maurice Bellonte, who flew 4,900 miles from Paris to Tsitsihar, northern Manchuria, in 1929.

Few trans-Atlantic flights have had a more surprising ending than this daring venture. The fliers sped along the sea lanes of the north Atlantic without being once sighted; roared over the densely populated capitals of Europe without their presence becoming known, and even left their "calling card"—in the shape of a packet of mail—dropped in the center of Le Bourget flying field, Paris.

Modest and unassuming concerning their great venture, probably one of the most astounding aerial navigation feats in history, Boardman and Polando nevertheless were amazed to learn that they had flown across the entire map of continental Europe without once being seen or heard.

They realized that fog and mist probably obscured their plane from view during a large part of the journey, but felt for certain that Paris would realize they were in the vicinity when they figuratively swooped down and rang the "aerial doorbell" of the French capital.

Considering weather conditions and the speed capacity of their plane, Boardman and Polando made good time on their long flight. They averaged something above 100 miles an hour for the entire journey.

Istanbul, thoroughly accustomed to the roar of the airplanes through constant mail and passenger service maintained between this city and the capitals of western Europe, nevertheless was thrilled over the brilliantly successful termination of the first non-stop flight ever staged with the "gateway to the Dardanelles" as is goal.

Turkish aeronautical authorities were loud in praise of the "bull's-eye" navigation of the fliers, and acclaimed it a flight equalled in perfection only by the memorable crossing of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh from New York to Paris. Not only did the fliers reach Istanbul without stopping, but they made the journey on clockwork schedule. They allowed themselves 50 hours for the journey, and made it with 42 minutes to spare.

Hop To Berlin.

CROYDON AIRPORT, LONDON, Still determined to shatter the round the world record held by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty, Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn, American trans-Atlantic airmen, left Croydon at 2:14 p. m. today (9:14 a. m. E. D. T.) in their speedy monoplane for Berlin.

The fliers reached Croydon this morning after spending the night at Moyle Grove, North Wales, where they landed in a fog after successfully completing their trans-Atlantic hop from New York.

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

CROYDON AIRPORT, July 30.—Hugh Herndon, Jr., and Clyde Pangborn in the Miss Veedol landed at this airport at 8:15 a. m. today (3:15 a. m. Eastern Daylight Time) after a two-hour flight from the Welsh village of Moyle Grove, where they landed last night after a flight across the Atlantic from Roosevelt Field, N. Y.

At the time of the landing of the Miss Veedol here nothing had been heard of the Cape Cod, the plane which set out from Roosevelt Field Tuesday morning almost at the same time as the Miss Veedol. The Cape Cod, a black and yellow monoplane carrying Russell Boardman and John Polando started for Istanbul, Turkey, in an endeavor to beat the non-stop distance record of 4,912 miles set up by the Frenchman, Dieudonne Coste.

Although the first scheduled stop of the Miss Veedol was Moscow, the routes of the two planes from New York to Central Europe were identical. As the first air race across the Atlantic, the two flights stirred the imagination of Europeans.

Londoners eagerly bought newspapers telling of the landing of the flyers on the Welsh countryside after a hazardous passage through unruly elements above the North Atlantic.

As soon as Pangborn stepped from the Miss Veedol at Groydon, he asked newspapermen for news of Boardman and Polando and when told that they were still missing, said:

"Gee, that's tough."

The red Bellanca came down at Croydon out of gray, dripping skies to a rainsoaked field. Not more than fifty people, mostly newspapermen and photographers, braved the dismal weather to welcome them.

The courageous young flyers were in excellent form, having slept like tops for five hours in the hospitable inn of Mrs. Lewis at Cardigan, Wales, before taking off from Moyle Grove.

They said that they would refuel the Miss Veedol and take off for Berlin at 1 p. m. (8 a. m. in New York). With the most difficult part of their projected globe-girdling flight behind them, they still thought that despite the delay that they would be able to beat the record of a little more than eight days established by Wiley Post and Harold Gatty in the Winnie Mae.

Murk Terrible.

"Tell our friends," Herndon requested International News Service, "that we did not have to land, but thought it the best course because of the fog.

"The murk over the Atlantic was terrible," he went on, "We were forced to fly at a height of from four to fourteen thousand feet to escape it and saw the sea only once. Except for the first ninety minutes we flew completely blind. Our trip from Wales today was almost as bad."

After posing for a "talkie", Herndon and Pangborn had breakfast in the dining room of Croydon pilots. They then decided not to attempt to reach Moscow on the next hop but to stop at Berlin for more fuel due to the condition of the Croydon field which would make a takeoff with a complete load difficult.

The two young men talked to correspondents as they ate.

"We realize that we cannot make the trip round the world in six days as we hoped, but we intend to do it under nine," said Pangborn.

Asked about the flight over the Atlantic, he continued:

"We were in fine shape despite the fog and took turns sleeping."

Herndon then told of their heartbreaking efforts to find a loophole in the fog when their instruments told them that they must be somewhere over Ireland.

"We circled about for hours trying to land," he said. "When we did land near the seashore in Wales we thought it was Ireland because of the strange language talked there. We thought Welsh was Gaelic."

The flyers were told how police and airport officials in Ireland had heard the droning of their motors high in the fog and their efforts to assist them.

SENTENCE FOR CAPONE LIKELY TO BE SURPRISE

tween the Capone lawyers and the government prosecutors.

May Change Plea.

A significant move in the case was expected when Attorneys Thomas Nash and Michael Ahern, representing Capone, went into conference behind closed doors shortly after the judge continued the hearing.

After the conference it was indicated that there was a possibility that Capone might change his plea from guilty to not guilty. His attorneys pointed out that they could take the step before sentence actually was passed. They were to decide before resumption of the hearing what action to take.

CHICAGO, July 30.—"Scarface Al" Capone, reputedly czar of the underworld and officially public enemy No. 1, smiled pleasantly today as he walked the last steps of the long trail from booze, beer and vice to the penitentiary.

As he stood before Federal Judge James H. Wilkerson to be sentenced on his pleas of guilty to violations of the income tax and prohibition laws, he nodded to those about him, apparently unconcerned with the shadow of prison walls that was creeping over him.

A tremendous crowd fought and shouted for a glimpse of the gangster but government agents and city police held back the surging mob. Entrance to the courtroom was permitted only by identification.

At that it was filled to overflowing.

TIME FOR GERMANY TO DO SOMETHING

DISAPPOINTED in not getting all she hoped from the London conference, Germany is making the best of the situation by taking some independent steps toward restoration of her credit, Germany begged for a huge foreign loan. The people of whom she asked it studied the situation and decided Germany was a poor risk because she wasn't doing certain obvious things for herself. The huge loan was held off, and the immediate emergency was met merely by extending short-term credits.

The German financial leaders got the point. They promptly established the Acceptance and Guarantee Bank for the purpose of putting other tottering German banks back firmly on their foundations. They announced that deposits in the other banks would be protected. They promised that credits needed for ordinary business activities would be available.

Part of Germany's troubles, according to the prevailing view, were caused directly by the panic fear and foolish acts of some of her leaders. Until the Germans themselves show willingness to do their part in the great international task of setting to rights a sadly chaotic world, the other powers are wise to move slowly. The most useful charity is that in which the helped does as much for himself as possible instead of leaving everything to the helper.

THE PANACEA FAILED

Operation of the farm relief scheme evolved by congress and turned over by it to the tender mercies of the farm board has now reached that stage where it may safely be said that the plan and not the board has failed. A good deal of the yawping about the board is due to blighted hopes and the frantic hunt by the farm-politicians for an alibi for the failure of their pet panacea.

Nor is the plan a total loss. The board with the help of the public funds placed at its disposal for farm loan purposes has been able to aid a number of key agricultural interests, including cotton, corn, grapes and dairy farming. Because it was only partly successful in its wheat rescue efforts, has it been condemned by its own makers.

While it was buying wheat and accumulating that 200-million reserve, the board was able to maintain an artificial price of 82 cents bushel at a time when there was enough wheat in the world to force the price down to 60 cents or lower. That was borne out by the fact that the price dropped to 59 cents when the board, because of lack of funds, withdrew from the market.

Is the big wheat farmer now convinced that the law of supply and demand cannot be repealed by congressional fiat? Must it be further demonstrated to him that the farm board cannot help him as long as he persists in ruinous overproduction year after year, and that he would not need federal aid if he kept the supply within the demand? Ten chances to one he will follow the next Moses who tells him the law of supply and demand is the bunk and promises to lead him out of the wilderness for a few votes.

GOVERNOR RITCHIE'S CONFUSION

Governor Ritchie of Maryland is one of the most attractive of the Democratic presidential possibilities. He appears as a man of intelligence, character and training for high political office. For these reasons it is surprising to see his customary clarity obscured to a point where he confuses normal and traditional American participation in world affairs with American membership in the League of Nations. In a recent address he indicated that President Hoover's moratorium meant the "end of isolation" and, for this reason, implied that formal alliances with Europe were the inevitable and desirable corollary.

This is an odd confusion. From the beginning of its history the United States has never hesitated to participate in any situation in which it believed itself to have an interest. Since the war the United States government has been represented officially on those questions which affected it directly. "Isolation" has never been its policy either in fact or in theory. Not only was the government represented at the London and Geneva naval conferences, for example, but it was represented at the several preparatory conferences also. It was, of course, represented officially at the recent London conference, since this government had taken the initiative in proposing a moratorium and was affected to a greater financial degree than that of any other power.

These official participations do not mean that the practice of having unofficial observers at foreign conferences which only indirectly concern us is discredited or will be discontinued. This practice, used successfully by Great Britain, for example, at the time of the Holy Alliance, is ideal in certain circumstances. Nor does the participation of the United States in situations which affect the government require any sacrifice of American independence of action. Indeed, the more this country participates, the better it is for us, and probably for the rest of the world, if we can bring an influence to bear which is unhampered by local European commitments.

This is a distinction which the administration has been most careful to make at various times during the current international effort. It is a distinction so well established in American history that Governor Ritchie should readily have grasped it. If he says that the United States can be a good influence in the world, he will not be denied. If he says further that the United States should use its influence where it is involved in fact and can be helpful, the country will agree with him. But when he says that our influence for good can be enhanced by entangling us in European problems which do not directly concern us, it becomes extremely difficult for the public to follow him.—The New York Herald Tribune.

WHAT IS MORE FOOLISH

Than to buy things because we think other people think we ought to have them?
Than to spoil pleasures we have envying other people the ones they have?
Than to spend our life for that which ruins life for other people?
Than to build machines and then serve them the rest of our lives?
Than to live in God's world and never make an effort to get acquainted with him?
Than to be the father of a son and never really know him?
Than to try to make a great life out of trifles?

Bible Thought For Today

THERE IS NO DISCHARGE:—There is no man that hath power over the spirit to retain the spirit; neither hath he power in the day of death: and there is no discharge in that war.—Ecclesiastes 8:8.

All Of Us

He Said He Was "Broke"
I Didn't Believe Him
He Didn't Sound Like It

He told me he was broke.

But he smiled as he said it.

Two years ago, he said, he had a business and some money in the bank and some investments.

Now the business and the money and the investments had faded away. He'd struggled to keep them, he'd done all that any man could do, but somehow they'd gotten away from him. All he had now was a job and he wasn't sure how long he'd have that.

Two years ago he had a family. A wife and two children. He and his wife were fairly happy together. The children, a boy and a girl in their teens, seemed happy, too, though they were always asking for things.

He still had the wife, he still had the children, and they were happier than they'd ever been. Not superficially happy, but happier than ever deep inside where it counts the most. His wife had helped. For a while, even, she'd taken a job. And somehow they were closer together. They'd taken the children into their confidence more in the past two years. And altogether they seemed more of a real family now—four people living together, instead of four people each in a separate groove.

Times had been tough, he said, and life hadn't been any picnic There was no use kidding himself about that. He'd never have willingly chosen the experience he'd had in these last two years. He wouldn't have had courage or wisdom enough to do that. He'd have tried to learn what he knows now in some other, some easier, way. . . . He was scarred and maybe his family was scarred, too, by the things he'd gone through. You can't worry and dread the future for those you love without paying for it. And pretty heavily, too.

But he had Love. He had the Respect of his family. He had Courage left. He gained Experience. He hadn't lost his Grip. He gained more Knowledge about Life. He'd had a lot of nonsense knocked out of his head. He didn't ask as much as he did in 1929; he was willing to give more in 1931.

He told me he was broke—

But he didn't sound like a man who was broke!

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

LISTEN TO A "REFORMER"

Lincoln Steffens, Ida Tarbel, Ray Standard Baker and Upton Sinclair are remembered as the "Muckrakers" of a generation ago. They were all "Reformers" and for good or ill, their "Reforms" went over. They themselves are not altogether pleased with their work.

Lincoln Steffens recently confided to Lemuel E. Parton some interesting reflections in answer to his interviewer's question as to what happened to the "reform" for which Mr. Steffens had labored during a large part of his long life. Steffens summed it all up in a characteristic epigram: "The trouble with us reformers is that we won." He developed his theme as follows:

"Since the start of the muck-racking movement, we have put over the anti-trust laws, prohibition, the referendum and recall, the direct primary, the regulation of public utilities and the direct election of United States senators. We have gone a long way in establishing the commission form of government and the city manager system. We have drawn the lines against the power monopoly and driven ahead in the public ownership fight. We made the war and we made the peace. Make no mistake about it, under President Wilson's leadership, it was the liberals who made war and peace. So summing it all up we won. There's no doubt about that. But with all this fighting, with all these victories, we did not change, affect or improve any single essential. In fact we fought over almost everything but the essentials. Instead of trying to find out why men behave in certain ways we tried to make them behave our way. We knew nothing and discovered nothing about motivations of conduct. . . . The reformer won't let life go its own way. He makes rigid molds out of words, virtue, democracy, justice, liberty, and tries to pour this stuff into them. Laws are to him instruments for making other men behave according to his ideas. When we start multiplying laws the worst thing that can happen to him is to win. And to repeat, that's what happened to us. We won."

His interviewer wanted to know what he meant by the "essentials" overlooked by the reformers. "I mean," said Mr. Steffens, 'that somebody should have taken us aside and quietly whispered in our ear some of the economic facts of life. That's one thing. Another thing is the one great essential involved in attitudes. We didn't believe enough in life. We laid heavy hands upon it. We made condemnations which bred hatred and bigotry. Believing in life means believing in each other. That's an essential we overlooked. How futile all our frantic little reform appears in the light of what happened in the last few years with five great empires toppled over, the gigantic experiment going on in Russia, the ruthless examination to which capitalists themselves are now subjecting our system of life! Sometimes I think everybody has been thinking except the reformers."

If the "Reformers" would begin all over again and make the Tenth Commandment their guiding star, the world might hope for better things.

Strangest of all women are widows. Statistics prepared by life insurance companies reveal the fact that the average estate lasts less than twelve months in the hands of the widowed beneficiary. The wonder is that any estate lasts so long. In this age of sex equality and female freedom, you would expect women to reveal in business matters the same shrewdness shown in searching for a bargain or a husband. But the sad truth is that the average widow hasn't a lick of sense when it comes to money matters. Now and then you'll find a spunky, matter-of-fact one, but in nearly every case she is one who learned business sense while bossing an impractical husband. Those who have no training before they are widowed usually are as helpless as babes. Their very efforts to be shrewd and economical are merely new ways of losing money. Their ignorance of the world and their trust in rogues is tragic. Of course I shall be scolded for saying such things, but the saying is needed. Wives know, or should know, that most of them will survive their husbands. The most elementary common sense should prompt them to learn something about business matters before they are left alone with nothing between them and destitution except a few thousand dollars of life insurance. If they won't learn, their husbands should leave them the kind of insurance that provides a monthly income which neither folly nor extravagance can dissipate.

Roosevelt Declared Leading As Favorite Of Democrats

Party Chiefs In New York And Pennsylvania Establish Confidence That Governor Will Have Many Votes In Convention

Comment a year ahead of the Democratic convention seems to indicate that Governor Franklin D. Rosevelt of New York has the lead in the race for the Presidential nomination in that party. Opinion on the subject, it is indicated by the press, has been crystalized by by statements from political leaders in New York and Pennsylvania, showing that large blocks of votes are likely to be placed in the Roosevelt column.

"The Roosevelt band-wagon is fast becoming crowded" attests the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR, observing that 'it will not be many months until the Presidential preferential primaries open in nearly a score of States" and adding: "Some of those who would oppose the nomination of Gov. Rosevelt are beseeching Newton D. Baker of Ohio to get into the race* * * *No candidate may be voted for in the Ohio primary unless he gives his consent. So far Mr. Baker has been reluctant to enter the lists."

"For the time being" thinks the OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN, "much strength is added to the Presidential aspirations of Governor Rosevelt by Mr. Baker's announcement that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic nomination so long as Roosevelt is in the field. . . His commitment to the Roosevelt cause will help the Governor considerably for the time being. Ultimately it may help Baker himself and tremendously. For it is by no means certain that Roosevelt can command the necessary two-thirds votes."

"The Democracy" declares the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, "yearns for a winner, it craves the patronage that goes with the Presidency—as who wouldn't? The belief that Roosevelt can carry New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey in the East, resolidify the South, perhaps carry Ohio and Indiana and more than hold his own with Hoover in the border states makes effective campaign talk. The wise boys in Washington say 'it begins to look like a landslide.' Note the cushions they put under the prophecy. Still and however, they have guessed right before this."

"It is apparent that Governor Roosevelt is not only the outstanding leader of his party, but he is also one of the most able and courageous executives and statesmen in public life today," declares the DAVENPORT DEMOCRAT, with the tribute that "Roosevelt has been tried and proved in the fires of an executive responsibility second only to the Chief Magistracy of the nation' and that "he faces squarely, honestly and courageously the principal problems of today and tomorrow."

"The tide of Rooseveltian sentiment runs strong in the East, strong in the West, incomparably strong in the South, and apparently is destinued to become transcendent throughout the nation," in the opinion of the ATLANTA JOURNAL, which quotes Joseph F. Guffey leader in Pennsylvania, as stating that he "would risk his reputation 'as a political prophet' on the forecast that Governor Roosevelt would have the unswerving support of at least 66 of Pennsylvania's 72 delegates to the Democratic national convention." The SCRANTON TIMES holds that Mr. Guffey "is in close touch and co-operation with the present Democratic organization in his State" and that "he bases his belief on sentiment expressed by party leaders and others throughout the State."

The fact that Mr. "Guffey's predictions in 1920, 1924 and 1928 came true" is emphasized by the PROVIDENCE JOURNAL, with the further comment that 'as time goes on, it becomes more evident that the New York executive is far in the lead for the Democratic nomination." The SPRINGFIELD (Mass.) REPUBLICAN links Chairman Farley of the New York Democratic State committee with the Pennsylvania leader, and quotes the former's announcement after a journey to the Pacific coast that Governor Roosevelt "will be nominated on the first ballot." The Republicans adds that advices from the South bring cumulative support for the view that Governor Roosevelt will enter the convention with at least a majority of the Southern delegates.'

For the mement, the impetus given to the Roosevelt boom has overshadowed the activities of others who have been mentioned as possible contendors for the Democratic nomination," states the SIOUX FALLS ARGUS-LEADER while the CHARLESTON (S. C.) EVENING POST voices the judgment: "There can be no doubt that Governor Roosevelt is not only leading for the Democratic nomination but that he is increasing his lead steadily. It is not unlikely that by the time the convention opens he will be virtually the only serious contender for the nomination and will be named on the first ballot. Whether or not his candidacy justifies the strength it has developed it has certainly grown almost without a single set-back into very impressive proportions."

"'It has been clear,' says the NEW YORK TIMES, "that Mr. Roosevelt's name, his personal charm, his record as administrator and as vote-getter in New York and his steady association with the South through Warm Springs, Ga., have helped to put him in the forefront in that section. It has also been realized that his connection with Woodrow Wilson has been of great value to him in the South.'

"At the present time" according to the SAN JOSE MERCURY HERALD, "Governor Roosevelt is the leading candidate for the Democratic nomination." That paper, however, asks: "Should he become the standard bearer of the party, will he squarely face the important economic problems and seek to inform the people of them, or play politics?" The San Jose paper concludes: "Before Franklin Roosevelt made his entry into politics he appeared to have the statesman's attitude toward problems of government, and much was expected of him. But he seems to have succumbed to the temptations of the politician. It is quite obvious that the main purpose of his interest in cheaper electric rates for farms is to capitalize for political purposes the power trust issue and not to help the farmers work out their real problems."

OFFERING DAD A REAL SAVING

The father sat in his red arm chair,
"And what do you want?" said he,
"And why do you quake, and why do you shake
Whenever you talk to me?"

The young man said "It's a lovely day!"
And he shifted in his chair,
"Is that all you've called on me to say?"
Asked the father sitting there.

"Well, no!" then stammered the pale young man,
For his tongue could scarcely stir,
"But we've really thought of a splendid plan
To save you some money, sir."

"We've thought of a plan," the father asked,
"Some money to save for me?
Have two great brains on the scheme been tasked
And whose can the other be?"

"Your daughter's sir," said the youngster grave,
"We've talked it all out, you see.
All she's costing you now you'll save
By letting her marry me."

KEEP COOL!

If you fret and talk about the weather, naturally you experience great discomfiture.

You can't change it, so why complain about it.

The more effort to keep cool and still do your work the greater the annoyance to you and those who must listen to your groans and fussing.

You wonder at the complacency of certain ones in your establishment in trying heat.

They seem to get along without much discomfort.

They keep their minds on other things and can work with almost undiminished energy and interest.

Perhaps you think they do not suffer as you do.

Perhaps they don't but this is because they have not added to the severity of the temperature by working themselves into a ferevish state on account of it.

It takes will power to control your thoughts.

Those who get the most out of life are those who accept what they have no power to overcome.

Many conditions in life require this sort of philosophy.

Eight Honor Students Get Scholarships

High School Graduates To Enter Westminster This Fall

Study Financial Aid To Students At The College

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., July 30.—Eight honor students from high schools of western Pennsylvania have already enrolled in the freshman class at Westminster College, Dr. J. A. Swindler, registrar, announces. All eight were among the first three in their high school classes, and all will receive "faculty scholarships" in recognition of their excellent high school records.

They are: Edward Winslow, Farrell; Mildred Dick, West Middlesex; Alfred Barnes, East Brook; Fern Fox, Turtle Creek; Mary Madden, McKees Rocks; Mildred Ralston, Freeport; Lola Sewall, New Wilmington, and Mary Stanier, Springdale.

A special committee, consisting of Dr. Charles Freeman, president; Professor C. W. McKee, A. A. McDonald, Professor J. D. Lawther and Dr. E. B. Russell, has been studying the matter of scholarships and student financial aid during the last month. As a result a new application form to be used by students seeking aid has been printed.

Notice has also been sent the principals of all high schools in middle and western Pennsylvania announcing that the college has available three scholarships to students desiring to enter this fall. One scholarship of $150 is available to any of the first three graduates in the honor group of any high school in the state.

A second scholarship, worth $100, is available for any one of the second three in scholastic standing in the high school. A third scholarship, amounting to $50, is available for any one of the seventh, eighth, ninth or tenth ranking students in the high school class.

Such scholarship aid, made possible through the endowment and through recent gifts to the college, goes only to well recommended students, and only to those who are among the first 10 in their class ranking.

Already there are more students enrolled for fall than at this time last year.

Confessions from some of the men held that they passed bogus currency have also been obtained, authorities state.

The six men arrested are Alois Schendzielorz, 65; William Cronin, 47; John Donovan, 31; Carmen Durso, 22; Harry Elliott, 42, and Robert Klepper. The woman taken was Mrs. Anna Schendzielorz, 65, wife of Alois Schendzielorz.

Announce Date For Dedication At Grove City

New College Structures Will Be Formally Opened On October 8

GROVE CITY, July 30.—October 8th is announced today by Dr. W. C. Ketler as the date for dedication of two new buildings at Grove City College including the Harbison Chapel and Hall of Science built at a cost of $500,000.

Harry J. Crawford, Emelton oil operator and Dr. E. J. Fithian local manufacturer are the trustees in charge of the dedication which includes a program at the Harbison Memorial Chapel in the evening and the Hall of Science in the afternoon. In the evening the Francis St. Lager Memorial organ in the chapel will be dedicated at a recital.

The chapel is the gift of the Harbison family as a memorial.

The program will be the most elaborate of any ever held here.

It is planned to secure a return of a large majority of the 2700 alumni of the school for the event.

JONES EULOGIZED

"Ben Jones of Grove City the best quarterback in the United States" is a statement made in the Boston Herald. The article is one written on "Pro" football by Carl Wartem who uses as his test information derived from that star of the game Joe Carpe.

Carpe had evidently become well acquainted with the ability of the late Crimson star for he associated him and his team made up of such men as "Fat" Henry, Wash-Jeff star, Stein of Pitt and others of the same prominence in his talk.

Jones in his opinion was irresistible. He was a ten second man and played football at a weight of 220 pounds.

Following his graduation here in 1923 Jones went to the Canton Bulldogs, then to the Yellowjackets to Frankfort and then to New York.

He was a victim of the clinic fire in Cleveland two years ago.

TAKE VACATIONS

Vacation period for Grove City clergy and faculty members of the college takes place during the coming month.

College will be out until September 15th.

SEEK RELIEF FUNDS

An appeal for contributions of money to continue the operations of the Central Relief Committee of the Grove City Community has been made by chairman John McCune, Jr.

The committee is in need of funds now says McCune who reports expenditures of $6,000 the last six months.

No further action will be taken at this time in the securing of funds states McCune whose records show a large number of cases attended to.

Tests Shows Great Amount Of Tuberculosis In Pennsylvania Cattle

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Tuberculosis eradication activities of state and federal officials last month revealed that bovine tuberculosis was more prevalent in cattle tested in Pennsylvania than in cattle examined in the country as a whole, the Department of Agriculture announces.

During June 2,926 cattle were tested in the Keystone State, and of these 86 reacted, showing the presence of bovine tuberculosis. This was at the rate of reactions from 3.2 per cent of those tested. In the country as a whole, on the other hand, only 1.1 per cent of all cattle tested for tuberculosis reacted.

At the end of June, 6,740 herds with 116,244 cattle in Pennsylvania had been accredited as being free of tuberculosis. A total of 141,307 herds with 1,131,688 cattle were under tuberculosis eradication supervision in the State.

Puzzlers

The old man is 71, the young one 34. At what age was the older man three times the age of the younger? At what age will the younger have reached half the older man's age?

ANSWER TO PUZZLE

The old man was three times the younger man's age 15½ years earlier when he was 55½ and the young man was 18½. The young man will be half the old man's age in three years, when he is 37 and the old man is 74.

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

A recollection of a local industry and a man, who had the method of exploiting the product that was far in advance of his day takes quite a number of New Castle people back in the memories something like thirty to thirty-five years ago. The industry was the little bag of blueing that was so well known in this district and the man was Jerry Bauman, who was an advertising genius and certainly made his product known in this section of the country, through novel and successful means. This Little Blue Bag or bag of blueing was, really very essential to the happiness of the average housewife in keeping her clothes nice and white and was in a new and novel form which made it exceedingly handy. This was all well enough in itself, but it took the genius of Mr. Bauman to really acquaint the public with the benefit that his product was to the general public. And one of the most outstanding methods employed was the purchase of a calliope and a handsome team of black horses, the finest obtainable anywhere with which this calliope was drawn about this city and throughout the country and was the means of making it known to the people in general that Bauman's Little Blue Bag was an ideal preparation to save the woman of the household at least a part of her efforts on wash day. This was not the entire line manufactured by Mr. Bauman. He was one of the pioneers in the large production of ice cream in this city and he also put out a line of flavored gelatine pudding preparations, which were also popular in their day. Some of these products have been continued up until very recent times. The business of Mr. Bauman was first located on South street near South Mill and was later moved to the three story building to the rear of Neshannock avenue and along the Neshannock Creek. The plant still stands but has been in dispute for some time.

Tomorrow—When industries were small but numerous in the city.

BOY SHOOTS HIMSELF WHILE HUNTING BATS

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 30.—Using the butt end of a shotgun with which he was hunting bats to strike at one of the flying creatures proved disastrous for Howard Wilson, 17, Waynesburg last night, when the gun discharged striking him in the right arm and making amputation at the elbow necessary. Wilson said he had intended to shoot the bats but encountered them at too close quarters.

HARD SAUCE TASTES GREAT ON A FRESH GREEN APPLE PIE

Even in warm weather a green apple pie fresh from the oven is most appealing. And if you want to make it taste extra good put a spoonful of hard sauce on top of each cut. Just cream together ½ cup butter and 2 cups powdered sugar. When smooth, beat in 1 teaspoon vanilla.

In all kinds of cookery where a sweetening ingredient is needed, remember that refined cane sugar is the recognized standard. The Sugar Institute.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas bloats up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in blemishes. Your head aches and you feel down and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely.

But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the name Carter's Little Liver Pills on the red label. Resent a substitute. ©1931, Carter Medicine Company.

SALARIES REDUCED But Money Ahead

In conversation a day or so ago a gentleman remarked that he has no money in any bank, but that if he had followed his "intention" a year ago he would now have a nice savings account.

He said he had paid off monthly the mortgage on his home, then intended to continue his payments in a savings account.

But he did not HAVE to pay on his mortgage and so he let his money go for other things.

He said that if his salary had been "cut" $5.00 or $10.00 per month he would yet have had

Enough to eat

Enough to wear

Enough enjoyment, and that what he should have done was to "cut" his own salary into a savings account and have an emergency fund.

"As it is now with sickness and no work, I wish I had saved as I planned."

..From the above experience we suggest to everyone to begin saving now if he has not already done so, and that on all savings we pay 5% interest.

Premier Mussolini Has Ears Tweaked

(International News Service)

ROME, July 30.—The ears of Italy's dignified premier, Benito Mussolini, were tweaked just 93 times Wednesday—an old Italian custom Il Duce was 48 years old, and tradition demands that the youngest children of the family shall pull their father's ears once for each year of his life.

The privilege fell to Anna Maria Mussolini, two years old, and her brother, Romano, four.

Well, the world does move. Not one politician out of a hundred now even remembers who committed the crime of '73.

Money is but a symbol of earnest effort. As soon as earned, it should become a working force. It ought to be your partner, working along with you.

In many cases it represents severe hardship and self denial.

Richards Tells How To Alleviate Fungus

Howard Richards, civilian member o fthe municipal golf course and who might pass very well, as the result of his experience with greens as a "grassologist," today was questioned about the brown spots and patches which prevail on most of the lawns in the city. Richards explained the cause and suggested a cure.

The brown spots or patches is fungus. It is caused whenever one forces greens and lawns with fertilizer which results in excess nitrogen. This added to dew brings on the fungus, which kills the grass, and causes the brown spots and patches.

He said there are two kinds of fungus, one as small as a silver dollar and the other, patches.

"The treatment is to brush off the early dew, then use a mixture of corosive sublimate and calomel. This sometimes is known as Colo-Clor and it is used by mixing three ounces in 50 gallons of water and using all the 50 gallons to spray 1000 square feet of lawn. The lawn should be wet down good with a hose spray after treatment. About 10 days later the process should be repeated," said Richards. "The first application should top the spread of the brown spot immediately.

"Arsenate of lead is used for grub and other worms and is used at the rate of four pounds per 1000 square feet of lawn. This amount should be well mixed up with a couple of pails of sand and then the whole evenly distributed over the lawn which should be wet down good after the application."

TIT FOR TAT

The pompous stranger stalked into the office and demanded to see the manager.

"I'm sorry, but he's not here," replied the clerk. "Is there anything I can do?"

"No," snapped the visitor. 'I never deal with underlings. I'll wait until the manager returns."

"Very well, take a seat," said the clerk, and went on with his work.

About an hour later the man became impatient.

"How much longer do you think the manager will be?" he demanded.

"Nearly two weeks," was the reply. "He went away for his vacation this week."

Many Balls Stolen At Game Wednesday

One Young Man Is Arrested In Connection With The Theft Of One Of Them

Seven balls in all were stolen at last night's game at Centennial field between the Homestead Grays and the Scarazzos of the Lawrence county baseball league.

Sergeant Grover Syling arrested Paul Petro, aged 23, of the Butler road, for the alleged theft of one of the balls. The ball was fouled back over the grandstand and Petro caught it and when the officer tried to get it threw it to someone else, who is not known to the police. Petro was brought into the police station, where he declined to tell to whom he threw the ball. It was found that he had been out of work for some time and for that reason he was let go. The management of the Scarazzos, however, plans to prosecute the next case of this kind to the fullest extent.

France Imports Much Leather

Is Important Outlet For Product Of United States Manufacturers

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Although France is noted for its fine leather and ranks as the third leading leather producer of the world, it nevertheless affords an important outlet for United States leather, the commerce department announced today.

Last year American leather exports to France had a value of approximately $1,500,000. The bulk of this business was in patent leather with certain types of uppers also enjoying a substantial demand. Notwithstanding keen competition, this business can be expanded to a considerable degree in the opinion of the commerce department.

In 1930 French output of leather was valued at more than $160,000,000. About 80 per cent of this was consumed within the country. The Bulk of French leather output consists of leather, although shoe leather accounts for a considerable proportion, about 3,000 shoe-manufacturing establishments affording outlets for these types of leather.

Annual French exports of leather have a value of about $30,000,000 while imports average in the vicinity of $11,000,000. The bulk of France's foreign trade in leather is with European countries, with Germany, England and the United States accounting for 75 per cent of imports.

Small balloons, measuring about four feet in diameter, and carrying feather-weight instruments, are used for "exploring" the upper atmosphere. They show that the temperature remains nearly the same from a height of six miles to about eighteen miles. Above that height is a band of very high temperature.

Piles Go Quick
Without Salves or Cutting

Thousands of sufferers from itching, bleeding or protuding piles have learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with an internal medicine. Neither salves nor cutting remove the cause.

Bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel causes piles. The veins are flabby, the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To end Piles an internal medicine must be used to stimulate the circulation, heal and restore the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonhardt was the first to discover a real internal Pile remedy. He called his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients with the marvelous record of success in 960 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID tablets from their own druggist with a rigid money back guarantee.

Dr. Leonhardt's prescription has a wonderful record of success right in this city and Eckerd's, New Castle Drug Co., invites every Pile sufferer to try a bottle of HEM-ROID and guarantee to refund the purchase price if they do not end Piles in any form.

Hope Wanes For Trapped Miner; Signals Cease

Rescue Teams Dedouble Efforts To Locate Trapped Miner Near Pottsville

HAS BEEN TRAPPED SINCE MONDAY

(International News Service)

POTTSVILLE, Pa., July 30—Fearful that cessation of signals tapped on a pipe which led to his prison may mean the imprisoned man is dead, rescue squads today redoubled efforts to extricate Stanley Kirinski, caught in a fall of coal in the Lytle Colliery of the Susquehanna Collieries Company, near here, about midnight Monday and imprisoned in the sixth level of the mine since.

Kirinski, up until yesterday, had communicated with the rescue squads by tapping on a pipe which led through the pocket where he was caught in the fall. When debris threatened to engulf the rescue party, however, efforts to dig a way to the imprisoned miner were abandoned and a new start was made in the mine chute, where rescuers hoped to clear a path to Kirinski by drawing coal from the chute.

Hope Is Thin.

Soon after the new effort, signals from the trapped miner stopped. Hope was held out, however, that Kirinski had moved back in the tunnel for air or that the pipe had broken, interrupting the signals.

Colliery Company officials said there was little danger of Kirinski suffocating as air passages in the tunnel were, in all probability, not blocked by the fall. Chief fear of the rescue crew was that the miner had been caught in debris from the fall and was unable to move about in his prison.

Self Charging System Started At Local Library

This Is First Day Of Modified Detroit System At Mahoningtown Library

Today for the first time in the Mahoningtown library the self charging system, commenced Wednesday at the main library building, is being used, and the borrowers are quickly learning the new method.

Chained pencils have been placed on each reading table and are used by the borrowers to mark their respective card numbers on the book cards found at the back pocket of the desired volumes.

Because of the enormous increase in book circulation it was thought advisable to change from the old stamping system to a modification of the Detroit self charging system.

In order to secure a book, Miss Alice Sterling, librarian, explains, the borrower must have his borrower's card as identification. The number shown on the identification card must be marked on the book card found in the pocket of the book desired from the library. He then gives his card, the book card and the book to the verifier or assistant at the desk. The verifier checks the number, dates the book and gives it to the borrower.

Fire Investigated By State Police

Gibbons, State Police Fire Marshal, Probes Seventh Ward Blaze

Belief of city firemen that the fire in a garage on North Cedar street early Tuesday morning was the work of an incendiary, was strengthened today with the report of Fire Chief Lynn that an investigation into the origin of the blaze is being made by Walter Gibbons of the fire prevention bureau, Pennsylvania state police.

Gibbons was in the city yesterday and conducted his investigation at the scene of the fire, a damaged garage in the rear of 411 North Cedar street.

Fire of unknown origin, but believed by authorities to have been started by someone, damaged a frame garage of Louis Lateano in the seventh ward shortly before 4 a. m. on Tuesday. Seventh ward firemen checked the fire with chemicals and were able to save the garage only after the flames had damaged the roof and a side of the garage, bringing a small loss.

The result of the investigation of yesterday has not yet been made public.

Observations In 7th Ward

Jesse Boak, R. F. D. letter carrier of Mahoningtown, killed a 5½ foot black snake Monday. The large reptile was slithering along the "goose path" leading from Mt. Jackson to Moravia. Mr. Boak, covering his beat for the postoffice, came upon the snake and put an end to him quickly.

Mr. Boak missed his Eversharp pencil afterward and the next day he found it on the ground where he had killed the snake.

Two motorcycle highway patrolmen were on the job in Mahoningtown on Tuesday. One of them cast a suspicious look at a News reporter on West Madison avenue, stopped and asked to see driver's license and owner's card. It is a good idea—checking driver's licenses, and should be done all the time.

It was through the efforts of Ralph Andrews and Arthur Walker that a new automobile was removed from a Cedar street garage the other day, when the garage was on fire. Two patrolmen were there and worked with Andrews and Walker in getting the car out of the burning garage.

Charles Dungan, Jr., of Newell avenue, can do wonders with a peach stone and a pen knife. He has carved a couple peach stone "monkeys" that are perfect even to the impudent expressions on their faces.

Charles Dungan, Sr., is also an artist—in a different line. He can grow some of the nicest flowers there are in any flower garden in the city.

That tree at the south-east corner of the Madison avenue and North Liberty street intersection, should be removed. The tree, a large and old one, was partly uprooted by the heavy wind storm of several weeks ago. The sidewalk is raised some by the dislodged roots and the tree will topple over the next time the weather man's breath is too strong.

They say the California atmosphere is full of sand and so what happened near Mt. Jackson the other day would not be unusual in sunny California. Several people standing in their gardens Sunday afternoon were surprised to see streams of sand coming to the ground from above. Incidentally it was coming from a Goodyear balloon. A balloonist would call the sand "ballast."

Secret Six President In Chicago Refuses To Take Capone Seriously

Col. Robert Isham Randolph, Thankful Capone Gives Organization Credit

Says "Capone's Pocketbook Was His Undoing"—Had More Than 200 Henchmen

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, July 30.—Col. Robert Isham Randolph, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and founder of the Secret Six, that Al Capone, public enemy number one, admits drove him out of business, today declared he was "gratified that Capone gives us so much credit."

Capone's pocketbook proved to be his weak point, the colonel pointed out. "He is telling the truth when he says that the profit has been taken out of the booze and beer racket in Chicago. He maintained a gang of more than 200 men, many of them ex-convicts. He paid them $300 to $400 a week and they wouldn't let him quit the racket. When we cut down the profits by raiding the distributing centers, the overhead of this organization became so great that Capone was on the verge of going broke. He had created a Frankenstein monster which was destroying him."

Randolph thought Capone's prediction that gang warfare had ended was too optimistic, and "hooey" was the colonel's opinion of Capone's declaration that he opposed violence.

Col. Randolph declined to accept first credit for ridding Chicago of Capone, passing that honor to United States Attorney George E. Q. Johnson, who prepared the government's cases.

Rev. H. G. W. Smith Will Teach Class At First Baptist

Last winter the Men's Bible class of the First Baptist church entered into an attendance contest with the Men's class of the First Baptist church of Norristown, and the outcome of the affair was that the New Castle group lost and an aftermath of this contest will be the visit of Rev. Henry G. Weston Smith, pastor of the Norristown church, to the local church Sunday.

Rev. Smith will teach the Men's class and will also fill the pulpit of the church, both morning and evening.

The session of the Bible Class promises to be most interesting Sunday, as Rev. Smith is a Bible teacher of note and George Fox, president of the class, urges that all members of the class turn out to welcome Rev. Smith and prove that the class is one of 100 per cent attendance since the time of the contest.

Special Program At Camp Meeting

Closing Week Is Marked By Special Song Services And Special Guests In Audience

The Greenwood Camp meeting session was most interesting Wednesday evening, with special guests present and special music to mark the service.

Rev. and Mrs. Charles E. Cuff of Ellwood City, sang a most effective duet and Mrs. Burroughs of Ellwood gave a solo number, that was most pleasing. Rev. Cuff gave the opening prayer.

Dr. Johnson preached an instructive and inspiring sermon on "Christian Perfection" and after the message he invited all who wished to accept Jesus as their Saviour and those who desired to be made perfect in love, to come forward and a goodly number responded.

This evening Dr. Johnson's subject will be "Is There A Hell?"; Friday evening he will preach on "Heaven"; Sunday afternoon his theme will be "The twelve fatal gaps in Evolution".

The Sunday afternoon sermon is one that is well worth hearing as Dr. Johnson's profundity of thought is expressed in a manner that makes clear the error of this theory.

The closing sermon, Sunday evening, will be on "The Second Coming of Jesus". The closing sermons will be dealt with in a scholarly, scriptural and scientific manner, that has marked the series of sermons given by this Evangelist from Kentucky throughout the three weeks.

Plans for preparing the Ray Muirhead cottage at Lakewood for use by the New Castle Business and Professional Women's club were made by the newly appointed executive board at a special called meeting Wednesday evening at the home of the club president, Mrs. Sara Sankey McCune, Wallace avenue.

Necessary repair work on the attractive cottage will be started immediately and it will be a matter of but a few weeks until the doors will be thrown open for club members' week-end parties. The cottage is the gift of Dr. Elizabeth McLaurey, of New Wilmington, to the Business and Professional Women's club of this city, in memory of Ray Muirhead, who took an active interest in business women's organizations in New Castle a number of years ago.

Tentative plans for it's use were discussed at last night's meeting. It is believed that the cottage will be a popular recreation center for the club members and their specially invited guests during week-ends and throughout the week. Several club picnics will take place in the fall.

Fifteen members of the new board were present at last night's meeting. It was the first gathering of B. P. W. members since several months ago, when the club ended it's meetings for the summer months.

Club meeting will be commenced in the Fall. In the mean time the cottage will be in use and the key and list of rules may be obtained from the camp committee chairman, Miss Helen Hinkson, when the repair work is completed.

Training Season For Hunting Dogs Starts In August

Hunters Must Keep Hounds Under Control At All Times, Coen States

New Castle residents who keep hunting dogs, are looking forward to the opening of the training season, which starts on August 20.

Dogs must be kept under control, Game Protector Frank L. Coen states, in order that game may not be killed out of season by the untrained animals.

Those who contemplate training dogs, should be careful to observe the restrictions in this regard.

MOTHER OF TWINS IS EXCUSED FROM JURY

YOUNGSTOWN, O., July 30—"Congratulations."

This was what Judge George H. Gessner told Mrs. Edythe E. McCurdy, Struthers, when asked to be excused from grand jury duty today because she is the mother of nine month old twins, a boy and a girl.

"It would be an experience to serve" Mrs. McCurdy said regretfully.

"No one knows anything about rearing children until they have raised twins" said Judge Gessner. "I know from experience because I have twin daughters."

HARRISBURG—Miss Mary S. Labaree, director of the bureau of children, state department of welfare, has been elected secretary of section 1 on children, of the National Conference of Social Work at its recent conference held in Minneapolis. The session of 1932 will be held at Philadelphia.

THE EXTRA TROPICAL CYCLONE
By Arthur DeV. Carpenter

The atmospheric disturbance that brings a general rain in summer—also rain or snow in winter—is known as an extra tropical cyclone. It is also called a "low." It is a whirling storm of definite formation that occurs above or below the tropics. Lows are the cause of the never ending changes in our weather. A low consists of moderate winds blowing spirally in toward a common center, and rotates in the northern hemisphere in the opposite direction from the hands of a clock held face upward, clockwise in the southern; it's diameter may vary from a few hundred to a few thousand miles, and always travels eastward from some westerly point.

Chairman American Red Cross Called To White House By President Hoover

DISCUSS PLANS OF RELIEF, IS REPORT

WASHINGTON, July 30—In anticipation of continued unemployment this winter, President Hoover Wednesday called John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross into informal conference and discussed methods of best obtaining the cooperation of all relief agencies to work to a common end in alleviating distress.

There were indications that Payne's visit to the White House was only the first of a series of conversations the President intends to have, looking to a highly coordinated relief program for the approaching cold months.

The President, Payne said, is making a "thorough study" of the general unemployment situation. He did not say whether Mr. Hoover had a definite plan in mind, but insisted that unemployment relief in his opinion primarily, was a matter for the states to handle.

"The primary responsibility for the jobless rests with the states and the municipalities within those states," Payne declared. "There is no reason why the government should be called upon. This country can deal with the problem without the slightest difficulty if it is kept where it belongs."

He asserted the states and municipalities were in intimate touch with those needing help.

Payne denied his conference was inspired by alarming reports although he admitted there was nothing particularly bright in the outlook. He said information reaching the Red Cross was not of an unduly alarming nature.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

Is Training Wrong Asks A Teacher

Good Spank Teaches Tot Restraints, Dr. Myers Avers

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College Western Reserve University

"Dear Dr. Meyers: I read your column daily and admire your splendid ideas and common sence about rearing children.

"In our school and in neighboring schools of about twenty pupils, there is much difficulty in keeping children from hurting each other. For example, a hunk of coal was thrown by a fifth grade boy which broke out several teeth of another pupil. Still more startling to me—a small first grade girl took an axe and in earnest went after another first grader. In another instance, a small boy attempted to throw a stone at his sister.

"I think there has been something terribly wrong with the training of a child who does not realize the danger of throwing such things, and who is not enough impressed by it to hold his or her temper.

"My sister argues that children will 'just pick' up such things from other children regardless of their training. Would you kindly give me your opinion on the question?"

You are right. Of course you must assume that some children do not learn at home a high regard for the person and property of others. Other children with more training may imitate the former. Nevertheless, those children who from the time they could toddle were taught never to fight with sticks, stones and sharp objects, taught that it is cowardly to do so, are not likely to imitate the more dangerous children. The trouble is that most children have not learned self-restraint well. Nobody is more aware of this fact than you teachers are.

As you know, I have advocated in this column consistently the desirability of adequate restraints of children in very early years. I believe the child, as soon as he can move about alone, should learn that there are some things he shall not do and some things he shall not have, and to learn this by a good spank, if necessary. Among the things he should learn never to do are the kind of things you referred to. It is not enough for parents to tell children not to do such things. They must see to it that their children don't do them, that when they transgress in this fashion they immediately are punished. At home we made such matters of grave seriousness. Fortunately, upon reaching the age to become Scouts learned from scouting that fighting with sticks and stones and the like was not sportsmanlike.

I wish you teachers would make those children so offending remain away from other children for appreciable periods for each offense. On the other hand, please don't forbid them to fight when they use their fists and are pretty well matched. Some children should be encouraged to fight with their fists in self-defense.

Children like to make posters. Have them draw a picture of a child throwing a stone at another, writing under it in large letters: 'Cowards Throw Stones." Another picture of a bully, imposing on a smaller child, with, "The Bully is a Coward."

I hear from a great many teachers and heartily welcome their letters.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards" and "Fear."

Infant's Proportions And Development Are Traced By Clendening

Child's Head At Birth Is Relatively Larger Than Adult's And Continues To Grow Until 13 Or 14 Years

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

The proportions of an infant are not the same as those of an adult. The head is relatively very large. It is about a quarter the length of the entire body. An adult so fashioned would be a ludicrous sight, much like those figures with huge papier mache heads worn on feast days in European countries and occasionally seen in the news reels. Compared to the infant's head proportions as one-fourth the entire height of the body, the adult's head is one-seventh.

The baby's chest is very much smaller in proportion to the head and abdomen than the adults' . At birth the head has a larger circumference than the chest, but by the end of the first year they should be the same, and after that the chest should always be greater in circumference than the head.

The head, however, in spite of its relatively large size at birth, grows rapidly for the first few years of life. It grows on the average of five inches in circumference the first year and then an inch the second and third years, after which it does not grow more than an inch and a half up to 13 or 14 years, after which no growth at all occurs.

In actual figures the circumference of the head is about 13 inches at birth, 18 inches at one year, 19 inches at two years, 20⅛ inches at three years, 21 at five year and 21½ at 13 years.

This rapid early growth and subsequent retardation is natural enough when you remember what happens to the bony skull in those periods. The "soft spots" on the baby's head allow for the growth and expansion of the skull. The lines where the skull bones join, of which the soft spots are crossroads, are made of soft cartilaginous tissue early in life and grow rapidly to accommodate the brain growth. There are two soft spots, called fontanelles. The small one at the back of the skull is closed up with bone during the second or third month of life. The larger one forward does not close until between the 15th and 20th months of life. If the large fontanelle does not close by the 20th month it is a sign of rickets, and should call for expert examination and treatment.

By the 20th month the cartilage along the jointure lines of the skull bones is replaced by bone, and the skull and the contained brain grows then only very slowly until adult life.

The internal structure of the brain, however, becomes more complex with bewildering rapidity in that time. Reflex paths are opened up and cell connections formed for life. At no other equal period of time does an individual learn so much. He learns to decide from which side sounds are coming, to turn his sight upside down, to connect things with words, to control the emunctories, to take hold of an object with his hand, to know what is what to eat, to control the legs for walking—and ten thousand other things that make him the most interesting person in the world . Mussolini and Bobby Jones are dumb-bells beside a year-old baby, measured in the total amount of thinking and learning they do.

Pennsylvania Forges Ahead

Increases Per Capita Share Public Building Program Of Country

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—Pennsylvania did almost three times her per capita share toward keeping the public and semi-public building program of the country at a high level last week, according to the President's emergency committee for employment.

Contracts awarded for public and semi-public building amounted to $5,013,432 in the Keystone State last month. This was an average of $1.11 for every person resident in the state. In the country as a whole, on the other hand, such contracts awarded during the week amounted to $49,247,328, and showed a per capita average of only 38 cents. Thus the state average per capita was 71 cents, or nearly three times greater than that of the nation.

Such construction proposed in Pennsylvania last week includes highway construction, repair on schools and churches, construction of waterways and repair and construction of state and federal buildings, and embraces projects in every section of the state.

Many Notes Of Interest To Residents Of Welsh Extraction In New Castle

The sacred concert given in the Emmanuel Baptist church last Sunday evening was a most successful affair from the first hymn that was sung under the leadership of Thomas Richards of Warren, Ohio, to the benediction, which was pronounced by John Bright of Hanna street.

The scripture was read by Mrs. John McNeill and the playing of Prof. Edwin Lewis was greatly enjoyed. The New Castle artists were assisted by Mrs. Henry Badger of Cleveland and Marion Bevan of New York City, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Williams of Sheridan avenue, the boy soprano singer Lew Badger, Cleveland, made a hit; Miss Ceinwen Johns of Cleveland sang five numbers and the last sung in Welsh, and nothing like it was ever heard before in New Castle. The audience was well pleased with Miss Johns and she was pleased with her reception and has promised to return as soon as she can. The local singers, Mrs. Gwen Vogan, Brinley Hughes and Charles Richards were at their best and the congregational singing was most effective.

Star Of Wales

A most interesting meeting of the Star of Wales Lodge was held last Saturday in the Emmanuel Baptist church, when a letter was read from the grand secretary, Charles T. Wilkins of Rome, N. J. Daniel Williams, treasurer of the Star of Wales, was nominated for the office of grand treasurer of the Order.

The treasurer's report was read by Joseph Leyde, who was also named to represent the local lodge at the annual convention of the Ivorite Order, which will be held in August in New York City.

Notes Of Welsh

The writer received a letter from home this week, written by his brother David of South Wales. He stated that things are improving in the mills and mines over there.

Many New Castle persons are planning to cross the line to Ohio to join the Welsh people of Youngstown in their annual Welsh reunion, which will be held August 19. A splendid program has been prepared and some of the best singers of Ohio will take part. A good time is in store for those who attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Powell, Edison avenue, have returned from a visit with their daughter, Dorothy and her husband, at Sharon. They report having a very nice time.

Very truly,
William A. Johns.

John D. in Home-Like Role

A span of nearly 90 years is covered in this unusually homelike and exclusive picture of John D. Rockefeller and two of his great grandchildren. The aged oil king, 92, is shown holding John (left), 9 months, and Elizabeth, 2½ years, on his lap, at his spacious Lakewood, N. J., estate. The youngsters are children of Mr. and Mrs. George de Cuevas. Mrs. de Cuevas is the daughter of the late Mrs. Charles A. Strong, who, before her marriage, was Bessie Rockefeller.

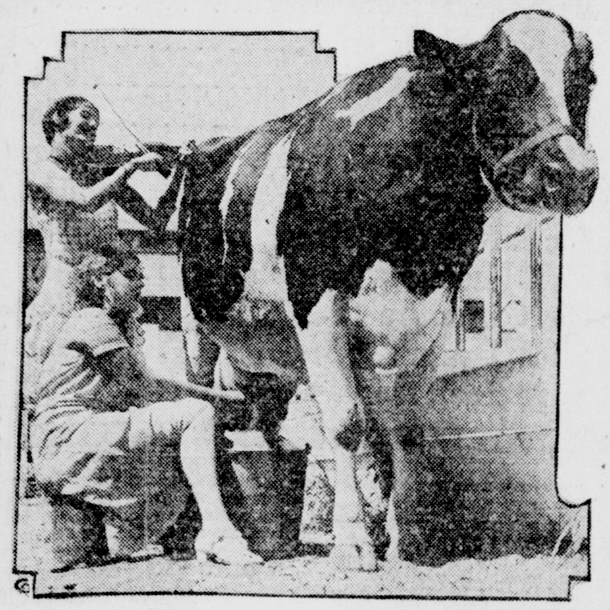
In his old outboard speedster, the young man attained a speed of more than 43 miles an hour

Hath Music Charm for Cows?



That music hath charms to soothe the savage breast is well known, but whether modern jazz will supply Bossy with the incentive to produce more milk is a mooted point. Whether or not to speed up the championship milking contest with jazz at the Los Angeles County Fair is being put to the test at Pomona, Calif., during preparations for the event, which opens in September. Lucille Gates, the violinist, is endeavoring to get the bovine being milked by Ruth Decker to produce more milk as music spites her ears. If this test is successful, a band will play for the milking contest finals.

Seriously Hurt

Joan Bennett (above), blond movie actress, was severely injured when thrown from her horse while making a picture at Hollywood. Reported in great pain, internal injuries were feared. Miss Bennett's left leg also was fractured. She is the daughter of Richard Bennett and sister of Constance and Barbara Bennett, all notables of the stage and screen.

Mystery of Slain Co-Ed Problem for Uncle Sam

Committed on Apache Reservation in Arizona, the Baffling Murder of Henrietta Schmerler Comes Under U. S. Jurisdiction.

TRIBAL MEETING OF APACHES.

Despite the untiring efforts of Federal investigators assisted by the authorities of the State of Arizona, the mystery of 22-year-old Henrietta Schmerler's murder remains unsolved. Miss Schmerler, a brilliant student at Columbia University, was in White River, Arizona, for the purpose of studying the customs of the Apache Indians. Among the theories advanced for her murder is one that the attention paid to the girl student by the braves of the reservation aroused homicidal jealousy in the breasts of their squaws. So far several arrests have been made but the suspects proved their innocence to the satisfaction of the investigators. However, the solution of the crime is Uncle Sam's problem and as he has infinite patience and a long memory it is only a matter of time until the cloud of suspicion that overhangs the whole district, red and white alike, probably will be cleared away and responsibility for the brutal crime pinned on the guilty shoulders.

C., to secure passports and make final preparations, then heigh-ho for Japan

Off to Blaze Trail to Orient

With the same nonchalance which characterized his take-off for Paris four years ago, Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh, accompanied by Mrs. Lindbergh, took off from New York for Washington on the first leg of their projected trail-blazing flight to the Orient. The famous couple of the air is shown in insert as they amicably smile for the photographer just before skimming off in their powerful pontoon-equipped Lockheed Sirius low-wing monoplane. The aerial shot of the Lindberghs headed for Washington, with the imposing New York skyline in the background, is one of the best ever taken.

An evicted mother anxiously watching over her baby asleep on a rude couch on the ground is shown at left. The miners struck in support of their union.

When Queen Visited Queen

It is only fitting that the first woman to set foot aboard the U. S. Navy's "Queen of the Skies" should be herself a queen. Governor Of Oklahoma Threatens To Close Up All Oil Wells In State

Governor Murray Will Go Into Action Saturday If Price Does Not Increase

Oil Operators Speculate On Whether Or Not Murray Will Carry Out Threat

(International News Service)

OKLAHOMA CITY, July 30.—Oil men today were speculating on an unparalleled situation that will be created in the oil industry should Gov. W. H. Murray fulfill his threat to compel the closing of oil wells by Saturday night unless the price of crude oil goes to $1 a barrel.

Products, purchasers and refiners today seemed inclined to take the governor at his word without reservation—and also to doubt that crude oil will reach $1 a barrel by the end of the week.

While his threatened action was cheered by independents, many of whom have been in increasing financial distress as the market has consistently declined during the last year, there was ominous silence on the part of most of the major concerns, and it was pretty generally agreed that courts will be resorted to immediately by pipe line companies and integrated concerns which refine and market the production of oil wells.

Very Few Comments

"The less we say the better off we will be," was the terse comment of R. E. Ellison, president of the Stanolind Crude Oil Purchasing Company. His comment was a fair expression of the attitude of the big purchasers. The Stanolind is a subsidiary of the Standard of Indiana and is the largest midcontinent buyer.

If the governor issues his order promtply at the expiration of his ultimatum, reverberations may be heard in federal court Monday, as three judges are scheduled to sit in Guthrie to hear the argument in the Champlin Refining Company's suit to destroy proration.

Since early June the Champlin Company has been operating its Oklahoma City field wells at five times the allowable production under a restraining order preventing the state from penalizing for proration violation pending the ultimate U. S. Supreme Court decision on the constitutionality of proration.

The Champlin Company transports its own oil in its own pipe lines to its own refinery and markets its products through its own service stations.

New Connections

Much speculation also is heard on the possible future effect in the Oklahoma Oil industry if a protracted shutdown leads purchasers to establish new connections in Texas and Kansas and refiners find a source of supply outside the state. It is estimated that the crude storage in Oklahoma will be virtually exhausted within thirty days, compelling refineries to buy outside oil to feed their stills.

12 WAYS ALLSTATE You Can PROVE.. is America's Greatest Tire Value!

When we put ALLSTATE tires on the market, it was with the thought that they would be worthy of the Sears name and the Sears reputation. So we went to the manufacturer whose record was without a single blemish—whose products were accepted everywhere as the standard of rubber quality.

Thus the greatest tire manufacturing organization, trained and experienced in the production of America's finest tires, and the world's greatest distributing organization, dealing with over 12 million families, joined in making and selling ALLSTATE tires. Unknown six years ago—unnamed as well—ALLSTATE'S quality has brought this tire to leadership in sales direct to users. Never, in the history of the tire industry, has there been a success to match ALLSTATE'S. Today individual tire buyers, in selecting tires, pick ALLSTATE over all other brands.

AND YOU SAVE 25%

ALLSTATE is a first quality tire. First quality, we said, and we mean that. We are willing to let you judge by quality standards alone whether ALLSTATE tires are the tires for you to buy.

ALLSTATE is so good, so well made, so sturdily built, that we are proud of its construction. There are, as all tire engineers know, 12 real factors of quality in every tire—not three, not six, not nine, but twelve. So that you may know them, we are listing them here.

COMPARE These PRICES

Automobile manufacturers do not use the Second Line Tires of National Manufacturers as original equipment. Why should you take the risk when you can save money by buying genuine, FIRST QUALITY ALLSTATE TIRES, backed by a responsible guarantee and with a saving of 25%? Even if the tire size for your car is not listed, we have it—and we will save you up to 25%.

COUNTRY CLUB ROAD IS FORMALLY OPENED WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON

Address Is Made By Congressman Swick At Dedication

Many Visitors From Lawrence And Beaver Counties At Affair

ELLWOOD CITY, July 30.—"At last a dream of mine has come true after many years of hard work," stated J. W. Offutt at the dedication exercises of the new country club road Wednesday afternoon just before introducing the speaker of the day.

The affair had been a memorable event. Ellwood streets were thronged with people watching the huge motor cavalcade being led by the high school band to the chosen place on the new road. Many prominent personages were present on this occasion.

The parade had formed on the P. & L. E. parking grounds at 1:30 and at a given signal all lined up as follows: Chief Marshal Ray Aylesworth, highway patrol escort, high school band, Beaver and Lawrence county officials, Franklin and North Sewickley township supervisors, highway department, Holmes Construction Company, officials, guests, Rotary, Kiwanis, etc.

Dedication Ceremony

All had proceeded down Lawrence avenue, up Fourth street, down Franklin avenue and out onto the highway. Upon arriving at the selected place opposite the Ellwood City Country Club, Dr. C. M. Iseman took charge.

The program was opened with the assemblage singing "America", with Mrs. H. E. Helling leading, after which Rev. Hugh D. Maxwell gave the invocation. This was followed by a selection by the high school band. One of the interesting features of the day was the introduction of the official guests by Dr Iseman. Among those present on this occasion were Lawrence county Commissioner P. O. Elder, Beaver county Commissioners, Arthur Combs, William Coulter, Walter Goetman, Franklin township Supervisors James Milnes, John Wilson, Russell Wright; Stanton Funk, assistant engineer of the State Highway Department, and Harry Kloss, division engineer, Pittsburgh; North Sewickley township Supervisors George B. Swick, Milo Main, Richey Rhodes, Congressman J. Howard Swick, Beaver Falls; Senator George T. Weingartner, New Castle; M. A. Bickett, Assemblyman William McElwee, Fred L. Rentz, New Castle News publisher; Dr. W. S. Cook, Beaver Falls; Assemblyman Fred Patterson, New Brighton; Assemblyman Williard Reader, New Brighton; A. S. Batchelor, Monaca, and Burgess J. C. Turner, Ellwood City. Many expressed their pleasure on being present on such an occasion and their appreciation of the fine work on the road.

Congressman Speaks

Superintendent of the National Tube Company of this city J. W. Offutt introduced the speaker of the day, the Honorable J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls, who delivered the dedicatory address. Mr. Offutt was well pleased with the fine work done by the Holmes Construction Company in giving this community a splendid network of roads. He feels that the road is a permanent one. Mr. Offutt has been working for this road for 10 years. It was perseverance of many people that made the construction possible. The greatest responsibility for it is placed at the hands of the Beaver county commissioners.

Dr. Swick in his address dedicated the road to six things—to agriculture, mining, manufacturing, education, pleasure and to the churches. Each of these lead to one thing in general—progress. Each needs good roads for travel before any progress is made. The farmers and miners need it to dispose of their produce as well as the manufacturers. Safe transportation is necessary for the children going to school and for pleasure seekers. The churches need good travel facilities before they can increase their membership. The speaker told of the always changing landscape in this district since his home was there.

Road Is Opened

At the conclusion of the address Dr. Iseman thanked the high school band, Mrs. H. E. Helling and all those responsible for the success of the affair.

The Franklin township and North Sewickley township supervisors officially declared the road open to traffic, while two girls, Dorothy Fetterman of North Sewickley and Martha Rugh of Franklin township exchanged bouquets of flowers and opened the gates to traffic.

C. C. Davidson was chairman of the reception committee. The motor club committee, which was in charge of the entire affair, was composed of Chairman Dr. C. M. Iseman, Nelson Runyan, Tony Turner, Charles Dindinger, George Blank, J. W. Baxter.

The road is nearly two and one-half miles long, reaches from the Ellwood-Zelienople road at Frisco to the Ellwood-Beaver Falls road at McQuiston's service station. It is 18 feet wide and was built at a cost of approximately $140,000.

Barn Is Burned; Loss Near $7,000

Ellwood Firemen Called To Parker Farm On Wampum Road

STOCK RESCUED BY MEN ON FARM

ELLWOOD CITY, July 30.—Property at an approximate value of $7,000 was completely destroyed when a fire of undetermined origin burned to the ground a barn belonging to R. B. Parker of the Wampum road Wednesday afternoon about 2 o'clock.

The cause of the fire was a complete mystery. There were four men in the barn when it suddenly burst into flames. There was no warning of the danger whatsoever. The men, Clyde Fox, Charles Darrow, John Ault, and R. B. Parker, the occupants of the barn at the time let out a warning and immediately set about rescuing the stock and equipment.

The Ellwood fire department immediately arrived on the scene but was handicapped in its work because of the lack of water. A bucket brigade was formed which saved the surrounding property. It is believed that much could not have been done had there been any water. The fire had gained too much headway.

There were three horses and three calves in the barn at the time of the fire. One of the latter was burned. A wagon valued at $125, a manure spreader, harness, 165 bushels of wheat, 50 bushels of oats, and a complete summer's crop of hay was the toll of the fire. The hay had been loaded into the barn the day before. Spontaneous combustion as a cause of the fire was not accepted by Mr. Parker who asserts that the hay was completely dry. The local fire department believes the cause may have been from sparks from a threshing machine.

No one was injured at the time, although Charles Darrow had the hair on his arm scorched.

In Hospital Here After Accident

Zelienople Man Injured In Accident On Perry Highway

ZELIENOPLE, July 30.—Andrew Albin of High street, is in the Ellwood City hospital badly cut and bruised as the result of an automobile accident. Mr. Albin had gone out early to pick black berries in the Portersville district, his former home. He spent some time picking berries, and about noon started for his home here. He came down the Perry highway and was nearing Harmony, when in some manner he seemed to have lost control of his machine, while travelling at a high rate of speed, and the machine run into the ditch at the side of the road near the Jonn L. Wise residence just north of Harmony, turned over in the Wise corn field at the side of the road. A machine was coming toward Mr. Albin, and got off the road in time to keep from being hit, or the accident might have been considerably worse. The driver of the machine going toward Mr. Albin said he seemed to be unable to handle the machine, and that he turned over three times. He was going down a slight grade. He was taken to a home near, a physician called, and then taken to the Ellwood City hospital, where he is said to be very badly injured. It required many stitches to close the cuts on his face, and he is very badly bruised about the chest. The exact extent of his injuries not being known. The machine, a new Dodge, was practically demolished.

Mr. Albin was for several years employed in Ellwood City, but for the past few months has been out of employment, and for this reason went to pick berries. He was alone in the machine at the time of the accident.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

Kit C[illegible]16. Kit's Fame

DURING THE EIGHT YEARS THAT HE WORKED AT BENT'S FORT SUPPLYING THE GARRISON WITH BUFFALO MEAT CARSON HAD MANY THRILLING ENCOUNTERS WITH HOSTILE REDSKINS AND BECAME KNOWN AS THE GREATEST INDIAN FIGHTER OF HIS DAY. ——•

EASTERNERS VISITING BENT'S FORT WERE ALWAYS EAGER TO MEET THE FAMOUS SCOUT. KIT WAS RELUCTANT TO TALK ABOUT HIMSELF BUT THE VISITORS LEARNED ALL ABOUT HIS DARING EXPLOITS FROM HIS ADMIRING AND MORE TALKATIVE COMRADES. ——•

ONCE THE COMANCHES CAME TO CARSON AND BEGGED HIM TO LEAD THEM AGAINST A LARGE BAND OF DAKOTAS (SIOUX) THAT HAD INVADED THEIR HUNTING GROUNDS. KIT WENT WITH THE COMANCHES, BUT DID NOT LEAD THEM INTO BATTLE. ——•

INSTEAD, HE PLAYED THE PART OF A MEDIATOR, ARRANGED A FRIENDLY COUNCIL BETWEEN THE TRIBAL CHIEFTAINS AND SENT THE SIOUX BACK TO THEIR OWN LANDS IN PEACE. ——•

Plans Completed For Tourney For Baseball Teams

Fourteen Teams Attend Meeting And Desire To Play For Independent Title

PLAYER LIMIT SET AT FIFTEEN

Plans were completed at a meeting at the Sporting Goods Store last night for the first annual New Castle Independent baseball elimination tournament. The tourney will get under way very shortly it was reported. Fourteen teams were represented at the meeting. Indications point to a very successful undertaking.

It was agreed upon to allow the tourney to stand open until Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, and by that time all teams desiring to enter the tourney must have their entries in. Saturday evening a drawing will be held at the Sporting Goods Store to determine who shall play who, and where.

It is planned to play the various games on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. The fields that will be used are: Scotland Lane, E. & A. field, Hickory, and Shenango field. The player limit is fifteen. No player now with a Lawrence County League team is eligible for the tourney. There will be a 50-50 split on the gate receipts at all games. A handsome trophy will be awarded the winning team, and also the title of Independent baseball champions of New Castle will go with it. There is considerable interest in the coming tourney.

The following teams were present: Mahoning A. A., West Pittsburg Cubs, Calvary Presbyterian, Pontiacs, East New Castle Merchants, Malizzias, West Side Civics, Keystones, Buckeyes, West Side Tigers, Princeton, Cascade A. C., Ryantown and Soda Jerkers.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Mrs. Marion Jessup won over Marjorie Morrill, America's second ranking tennis player in the quarter finals at Seabright, N. J., and will meet Helen Wills Moody in a singles semi-final today.

Hollyrood Susan, daughter of Peter Volo, won the $5,000 Mail and Empire purse, a 2:12 trot which featured the closing day of the Grand Circuit meeting at Thorncliff park, Toronto.

With Max Schmeling in Germany the fans are speculating as to what would happen were Max and Mickey Walker to meet. There is no question but that Jack Kearns will try to arrange whereby Mick will get a chance at der Max.

GOLF for GIRLS

by GLENNA COLLETT

Women's National Golf Champion.

Written for Central Press and The New Castle News

Number 8

More questions have been asked me concerning my pivot than any other part of my stroke.

Glenna Collett

So here's how—and why.

I raise my left heel decidedly on the backswing. I was taught not to pivot from the waist—the ordinary arch that the clubhead follows on the backswing being sufficient to carry the body along with it in a natural turn. That is, of course, if I took my left heel off the ground.

It isn't a sway. Most golfers have been misled by this pivot being termed a "sway". It really is just a mere shifting of weight.

I bring my weight back as far on the right foot as possible in order to acquire a wider arch with which to hit the ball. My left heel then has to snap back onto the ground.

The left heel has to come down quickly—don't forget—to put the player in a firm position so as to make full use of all her hitting power.

A few words about keeping the left arm straight will be included in our next golf talk.

Homestead Grays Topple Scarazzos

Fine Crowd Sees Lawrence County Leaguers Topped By Homestead Grays

The Homestead Grays defeated the Scarazzos of the Lawrence County League, 12 to 0, in an exhibition game last night at Centennial field. R. Williams outpitched Rodenbaugh and Shields to win the game. Williams held the Scarazzos to six hits and fanned eight men.

The Grays looked dangerous in the first inning, hammering in three runs, and they came back in the second with three more runs. To make things safe they scored two more in the fifth and four more in the sixth.

Wilson led the hitting for the Grays with a triple and double. Byak featured for the locals with two safe hits. The fielding of Charleston was outstanding during the entire game.

Brandt Defeats St. Louis Cards

Boston National Pitcher Proves To Be Ace This Year—Has Won Flock Of Games

CLEVELAND WINS OVER SENATORS

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 30.—Ed Brandt, the Bostonian who lived in Boston but nobody knew about it and least of all suspected he was a pitcher, today continued his campaign to crack the list of sports celebrities.

The southpaw ace of the Boston Braves held the St. Louis Cardinals to five here and there safeties and scored a 3 to 0 horse-collaring of the team that hopes to beat the Philadelphia Athletics.

John McGraw's sore tonsils continued to be irritated but his Giants showed a surprising gain in health, winning 5 to 4 over the Pirates and snatching second place in the National League from Chicago.

Reds Beat Robins.

The Robins of Brooklyn fluttered sadly in the heat, dropping the final game of the series to the Cincy Reds, 2 to 1.

Jimmy Foxx's homer No. 20 with one on speeded the A's to another triumph, with the St. Louis Brownies the 4 to 2 victims. It was the champ's sixteenth straight home town victory.

The Cubs of Chicago came a cropper before five-hit pitching of Ray Benge of the Phillies, who won, 4 to 0. The win gave the Phils' an even break in the four-game series.

Good fortune, usually a stranger to Wes Ferrell, smiled all over him, for although he gave Washington ten hits, Cleveland took it, 6 to 0. Vosmik homered for the Indians with two on and also tripled.

Mr. Ruth honored the day with his twenty-eight homer of the season as the New York Yankees slapped down the feverish White Sox of Chicago, 10 to 4. Pipgras astounded by going the distance for the Yanks.

Boston's Ruddy Hose divided a twin affair with Detroit. Earl Webb connected for a single to win the 10-inning opener, 5 to 4, while clouting by Alexander and Stone highspotted the Tiger advantage in the 8 to 6 vesper.

SPYING ON SPORTS

BY WILLIAM RITT

Central Press Sports Editor

Flatbush Lament

'Tis early May, one hears the bay
Of lowly Robins, far from gay:
"Homers, triples, doubles, singles!
"All we need is lots of bingles!
"Then we'd win the National crown."

* * *

'Tis now July! Ah, hark! A cry,
As Robins far from first place fly:
"Yes, we're getting lots of bingles,
"Homers, triples, doubles, singles—
"But our pitching's fallen down!"

* * *

Hard is the road to the National league pennant, bad was the start the Brooklyn Robins got, many are the tough breaks they continue to receive. Tough must be the constitution of the well known relative, your Uncle Wilbert Robinson, for he continues to be fairly congenial and manages to produce the old Robinsonian smile occasionally, even while Fate uses him for a football and practices dropkicks from the middle of the field.

The storied difficulties encountered by the fictional Swiss Family Robinson, avidly read by all schoolboys, were nothing compared to what the Last of the Robinsons, the genial generalissimo of the Flatbush Fusilliers has been battling this season.

Having survived a disastrous start, a feud with Brooklyn sport writers, quarrels with the front office, failure of his sterling athletes to fashion sufficient base hits, incredibly stupid base running by these same employees when they did manage to get on the sacks and a succession of rumors that he was to be dethroned, Wilbert Robinson cajoled, coaxed and talked his outfit into a first division berth.

* * *

Graining second place, at last, it appeared to outside observers that Uncle Wilbert's troubles were about all over. True, he had to find the answer to the problem of closing the gap between the Robins and the first place Cards, but this seemed a simple task compared to the difficulties he had surmounted. Led by the redoubtable Lefty O'Doul the Robins were massaging the ball at a better clip than any other major league club.

Then Robbie's mound corps split wide open. Bang!—just like that! William Watson Clark went into a slump. Dazzy Vance's bad wrist began to back fire. Jack Quinn's aging shoulder muscles soured from overwork. Babe Phelps developed a sad case of bad armitis.

His pitching crew's collapse has cost Robinson dearly bought ground in the battle for the pennant. Pittsburgh took advantage of his weakened hurling corps, knocked the Robins out of second, down to fourth, and 'way below the Cards.

With a break like that most managers would be so wild they would be gnawing their initials in cement sidewalks. Approached and questioned about his team, Robbie manages to smile.

What a disposition!

Athletics-Cards Look Like Champs

Unless Unforeseen Happens Philadelphia And St. Louis Will Get World's Series

ATHLETICS ALMOST CERTAIN TO WIN

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, July 30.—Unless the unforseen happens and confounds the experts, the world series of 1931 will feature a return engagement between the formidable St. Louis Cardinals and the highly efficient, machine-like Philadelphia Athletics, the two time champions.

With the season only eight weeks to go, the A's virtually have clinched the American League flag while the Cardinals are breezing along holding a substantial lead over Chicago, New York and Brooklyn in the National League derby. It would require one of the most astounding upsets in all baseball history to beat the A's out of the bunting and, as for the Cardinals, they seem to have too much class for the three clubs that are trailing them.

Is Almost Safe.

Consequently, it is almost safe at this writing to predict that the first game of the world series will be played at Sportsman's Park in St. Louis on September 30. This fall the A's will open on alien grounds, the National League getting the privilege of staging the initial contest under the rotation plan. The opening world series game last fall was staged in Shibe Park, Philadelphia.

Poor Race.

The A's have dominated the American League all season. It has been a poor race because no team has been able to stop Connie Mack's great club with its remarkable pitching trio of Grove, Earnshaw and Walberg. Washington has made a gallant fight and has played winning ball all the way but the rest of the league has flopped badly, with the possible exception of the third-place New York Yankees who still feature a punch in "Babe" Ruth and Lou Gehrig.

In the National League the three runners-up—Chicago, New York and Brooklyn—staggered under pressure in the last week or so just enough to ease the pressure on St. Louis. As a result the Cardinals are now stepping along at a steady clip, about eight to eleven games ahead of the three pursuing clubs.

Unless either the Cubs, the Dodgers or the Giants, soon put on a sustained winning streak the National League is likely to be over by Labor Day with the 1931 world series featuring the old familiar Cardinals and Athletics. It should be a great world series, at that.

St. Andrews Wins From Gordon A. C.

St. Andrews won from Gordon A. C. in a mushball game, eight to five at Gaston park yesterday. St. Andrews scored sufficient runs in the first and third to clinch the game. D. Riley slammed out a home run with two runners on the paths. Yesterday's victory was the second of a three game series and St. Andrews will take on Central Christian at 6:30 p. m. today at Gaston park.

Tough for the Judges

Ball Yard Banter

Brooklyn's pitching problems may some day be solved, for down in Richmond, Va., there's a young hurler—20-year-old Jimmy Pattison—who has just tossed a no-hit, no-runner. Jimmy is the property of the Robins.

The Chicago Cubs are leading their league in hitting and fielding, but they're a few kilometers out of first place in the standings. What's the answer?

Every team save one in the National League is outbatting every team in the American holding the same relative position in the batting lists. Fifth place St. Louis Browns have a few strokes edge on the fifth place Brooklyn Robins.

The four leading Philadelphia Athletic pitchers have won nearly 60 games. That's 15 more than have been turned in by the four leading St. Louis Cardinal moundsmen.

Highland And Hillsville Tie

The Highland Merchants and Hillsville played a 4-4 tie game in a postponed Lawrence county league game at Highland field last night. The game was a pitching duel between Altman and Riley with honors about even. Austin Cowmeadow played a nice fielding game for the Highland team and also hit a home run with one on. Freidoff of the Hillsville team also hit for a circuit clout with one on. Riley fanned nine men, three of them in the final inning. Altman had five strikeouts to his credit.

Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?

Right now you can buy at record-breaking low prices the improved 1931 edition of the famous Goodyear All-Weather Tread Tire.

It is today and has been for 16 years the first-choice tire of the world.

This is not a mere claim; an unbiased public institution recently asked American motorists the question, "What tire is best?"

The vote, nation-wide and uninfluenced in any way, showed a preference for Goodyears nearly 2¼ times that for the second tire, and five times the average preference for all other makes.

If you want safety and mileage and style in full measure in the tires you buy now, you needn't deny yourself on account of cost.

This great new Goodyear sells today at the lowest prices ever, and at no premium over less popular makes of standard tires.

It is the smartest-looking equipment you can put upon your car, and it'll pile up performance for you that only top-quality can give.

Look at the tire and how low it's priced, then ask yourself the question: "Why buy a second-choice tire, when first-choice costs no more?"

NEW YORK STOCKS

Stock Market Today Is Quite Unsettled

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 30.—The professional bear element wasted little time in resuming their attack in today's session, and by concentrating their heavy gun fire on the Blue Chip favorites in the Industrial, Utility and Rail groups, succeeded in imparting a generally unsettled tone to the market as a whole.

U. S. Steel opened fractionally higher at the opening, in response to demand by shorts, bit then sagged abruptly to 83¾, for a net loss of almost a point. Bethlehem Steel was offered in large volume, breaking to a new bear market low at 34¼, off 1¼ points. Other ranking favorites to give way to the selling included American Can which dropped a point to 93; National Biscuit lost 1½ points to 55⅛, the lowest price at which the present shares have ever sold, and Case Threshing which dipped 1¼ to 62⅝.

American Telephone continued to perform sluggishly in the Utility section, sinking almost 2 points to 169⅜. International Telephone, Consolidated Gas, and North American were other favorites in this group to rule reactionary.

Weakness in the Rails was centered in Atchison which dropped 2⅝ to 15; New York Central which was off 1½ at 74½; Union Pacific off 3 at 152; Southern Pacific off 1½ at 76; and Southern Railway off 1⅜ at 27⅛.

Motors gave a particularly impressive group performance in view of the general market sluggishness. Auburn rallied 2¾ to 141¾; with Chrysler and General Motors improving their position fractionally.

International Nickel was again under pressure in a slightly easier mining group.

Oils and Amusements were moderately lower.

July Corn continued to feature the commodity markets with an additional spurt of 5 cents a bushel, making a total gain of 13¾ cents since Tuesday's close. Wheat and Cotton both ruled easier.

A glance at the dividend record of U. S. Steel Corp. since 1901 shows various instances where stockholders have quickly benefitted from extremely lean years to years of prosperity and many are hoping that history will repeat itself. It Rains And Old Tradition Stands

Waynesburg "July 29" Club Does Not Look In Vain For Rain Shower

(International News Service)

WAYNESBURG, Pa., July 30—A minute shower coming late in the afternoon, yesterday, kept a 57 year old tradition intact here. Carefully maintained records show that only twice in the last 57 years has it failed to rain on July 29.

The downpour was the first in ten days here.

All the members of the 'July 29 Club" kept a constant vigil from midnight on. A clear cloudless sky until noon had them worried. Yet, all day, despite the outlook, betting odds of five to one it would rain found no takers.

Defense Against Enemy Airplanes Made By Guards

Efficiency Of State's Defense Against Enemy Aircraft Is Exploited

(International News Service)

CAMP KEMP, MT. GRETNA, Pa., July 30.—Efficiency of Pennsylvania's defense against enemy aircraft was tested today in tactical problems which engaged the attention of Regular Army instructors, the staff of the 28th Division and the 213th Coast Artillery Regiment of the Pennsylvania National Guard as the mimic war between the coast guard outfit and the 28th Division Air Corps unit went forward under actual combat conditions.

With full field kit, gunners of the 213th today were in position over a wide section defending a corps area along the Elizabethtown branch of the Hershey railroad. Gunners slept beside their pieces last night after the regiment was in the field, and were up early today to repel the air attack led by Maj. S. Sidney Owens and the 103rd Observation Squadron.

Ability Displayed

Object of the demonstration is to show ability of the anti-aircraft units of the guard to repel air attacks presumed to be aimed at the rich farm region of south-eastern and south-central Pennsylvania and to prevent destruction of the stores at the guard encampment.

As the regiment moved into the field, it was hit by a surprise attack from the planes in which the airmen became technical victors.

Over the packed roads leading from camp, chocked with moving guns, rolling kitchens, caissons, supply trucks, wire carts and machine gun mounts, the planes zoomed like angry hornets, dropping bags of flour, representing bombs, on the moving artillery and dashing off before the guns could come into action.

No Victory Scored

A second attack was launched at the supply base after dark, parachute flares being used for bombs, but searchlight batteries of the 213th picked out the planes and the guns went after them with blank ammunition. The raiders withdrew, with no victory scored for either side.

The air offensive and the defense against it were observed today by Maj. Gen. William G. Price, Jr., commander of the division with his staff and Maj. Gen. John W. Gulick, chief of the coast artillery of the regular army, who arrived to watch the maneuvers.

Doughboys of the 111th and 112th infantry regiments today spent some time cleaning up the camp site and resetting tents overthrown by a severe storm which hit the reservation then went onto the target ranges to continue training with infantry weapons. Rifle and pistol practice continued on all ranges, and instruction in use of the bayonet, hand grenade, machine gun and one pounder also got under way.

Members of the 103rd medical regiment split into groups to attend specialist schools with emphasis on conduct of field hospitals and field care of wounded.

Four Perish In Mexican Desert

Two Men, Women And Two-Months Old Baby Perish Of Thirst And Heat

AUTO-STAGE COACH SUFFERS BREAKDOWN

(International News Service)

NOGALES, SONORA, Mexico, July 30—Four persons, two men, a woman and her two months old baby perished from thirst and heat after being marooned in the Mexican desert 200 miles southwest of Nogales, according to word brought here today by Mexican immigration officials.

The four died in the desert when an old fashioned automobile stage coach broke down in an isolated place last Saturday or Sunday, it was reported.

The party included seven persons all of whom started to walk 125 miles to the nearest Mexican town after efforts to repair the stage had proved futile and after a small water supply had become exhausted.

MY NEW YORK

BY JAMES ASWELL

Central Press.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The greatest free shows in New York are to be found in the radio broadcasting rooms. Few natives realize this.

How many Manhattanites know that, for the trouble of arranging for a pass, they can hear great symphony orchestras (in the flesh, not over the air), listen to crooners as they sway in dreamy, marcelled revery, watch comedians "feed" and "gag" a few feet away, observe the dress and mannerisms of people who hitherto have been merely voices and names?

• • •

I have already told of the tenseness, the throbbing modernity which pervade the tall rooms whence amusement goes forth to millions. The audiences—enjoined to absolute silence, subject to instant ejection for chronic coughing (theatre coughers, please note)—represent an odd cross-section of the New York scene. They are well dressed, as a rule, and most of them are out-of-towners.

The attitude of the performers varies. Amos and Andy, for example, always broadcast privately; they will permit no visitors. Rudy Vallee, on the other hand, like most of the others, basks in the flattery of fans who are impelled to view him in the flesh.

• • •

Incidentally, radio "ghosting"—frowned on by the big networks—has developed further than most listeners realize. In Chicago not long ago a whole series of talks by "well-known movie stars" were delivered into recording machines by broadcasters who had practiced imitations of the purported stars until they were letter-perfect.

MEMORY

Puttering around the Battery the other afternoon I glimpsed a great craft moving to sea in the blue haze, heard a deep, lowing siren that twanged old memories. It was the Leviathan, eastbound; the Leviathan looking not a day older than when I boarded her in Cherbourg to return to my last year at school.

Irrelevantly, I thereupon recalled an incident in the dining saloon that trip. Every evening the waiter had delivered such an eloquent spiel on the merits of the crepes suzette, that I let him bring me an order although I was invariably stuffed already. It seemed to make him happy, even if the luscious pastry went untouched.

On the last day I inquired: "John, why do you bring in that extra dessert every night? I never have room for it and it's wasted."

He grinned sheepishly and whispered: "It's not wasted. We get whatever the guest leaves. I could eat those things three time a day. They aren't but a bite, sir; just little flapjacks!"

WITH A FAST CAMERA

Oscar of the Waldorf, associated with spangled feasts for a quarter of a century, never cooked a meal in his life and at home his wife shoos him out of the ktichen, according to James Remington McCarthy, whose "Peacock Alley," to be published soon, goes behind the scenes of the fashionable hotel . . .

The pavers are at work on Fifth avenue again, spattering traffic into the side streets like a sledge on a stream of ants. Quite recently they smoothed the surface from 8th to 42nd, now it's from 42nd to 60th. Already there are bumps places along last year's stretch; so goes.

A United States agent who worked in Chicago on the Al Capone tax drive told a group of newspapermen today that New York gangsters are "pikers" . . . He added that he was certain Mr. Dutch Schultz couldn't have banked more than $2,000,000 in the last couple of years . . .

Thus glory passes: Gertrude Ederle, international heroine for her channel-swimming triumph in 1926, is now swimming instructress at a Brox pool . . .

The oldest social club in New York is "The Tough Club"—and although Gene Tunney is a member, the name is not indicative. It was founded by a man named Tough in 1865. The roster reads like a Who's Who of city notables, including Mayor Walker, George M. Cohan, James Stewart, the copped magnate, and so on . . .

Joseph Hergesheimer, the novelist, wears pink socks with a dinner jacket.

Trapped Miner Is Found Dead

Rescue Workers Find Body Of Stanley Kirinski Trapped Two Days Ago

NEW FALL OF ROCK FATAL TO MINER

(International News Service)

POTTSVILEE, Pa., July 30.—Efforts to free Stanley Kirinski from his prison in the sixth level of the Lytle colliery, near here, where he was trapped by a fall of coal two days ago, ended in failure today when rescuers found Kirinski's body in the pocket where he had been imprisoned.

Additional falls of coal and rock had crushed the miner's body and smothered him to death.

For a day after he was caught in the first fall, Kirinski signalled to rescuers by tapping on a pipe which led through the coal pocket where he lay. Then rescue workers had to shift their attempts from the shaft to the mine chute, where debris threatened to trap members of the party, and a short time later the signals ceased.

Ford Celebrates His Birthday

Is In Seclusion—Plants Are Closed For Time Said To Foreshadow New Car

(International News Service)

DETROIT, July 30.—Cloistered from the world of publicity in his Dearborn estate retreat, Henry Ford, retired automobile king, quietly celebrated his sixty-eighth birthday today.

Meanwhile, the plants of the Ford Motor Company were closed, temporarily throwing 75,000 men out of work ,according to estimates. The shutdown of the factories, it was understood, was signal of a new Ford offensive on the automobile industry.

The plants, reports said, would remain closed a month when a new model Ford would be introduced to the world. The coming new Ford, according to rumors, will be longer and lower and will abandon the Cowl gasoline tank for a fuel reservoir at the rear of the car.

Many new engine improvement will be embodied in the car and some reports stated that a modified "free wheeling" transmission will be used.

The only word that filtered out from the Dearborn estate today was Ford's brief statement to friends that "I am in the best of health."

Representatives who spoke were John Robinson, David Thomas, Clare Lutz, and Guy F. Aubel.

President David Thomas named Miss Mary Flynn, Miss Garnet Rhodes, Arch Fleming, Clare Roberts and Clyde Stevens as a committee to draw up plans for a future picnic. A date will be announced later.

Older Boys Have Big Time At Camp

Rentz Y. M. C. A. Camp Presents Eventful Program During Week

By BOB WILKINS
Camp Scribe

The first part of the last week of the Older Boys' group at Rentz "Y" Camp proved one of the most eventful of all times. Monday afternoon featured a "hare and hound chase in which the hounds were a little less successful on routing the hares than the hares in escaping the unmericiful howlings of the hounds. Jim Sotus captained the hounds, and the hares were led by Hib Reynolds.

Monday also marked the arrival of two new campers, Heber Baldwin and Jack Ligo who are staying for the last week.

Tent inspection has been won in the last few days by tents four and six which have had percentages ranging from 90 to 100. Leaders of the respective tents are Hib Reynolds and Tom Stevenson.

Tuesday found the whole encampment of boys starting out for a point several miles distant where the night was spent under the open sky. When the destination had been reached the afternoon was spent in swimming, mushball and horseshoes. This hike furnished a good opportunity for the passing of many of the camp tests inclusive of observational merits, Campcraft and hike.

Tuesday morning some league games were played off with several close games reported.

The early part of Wednesday was put aside for rest due to the hike overnight, but after a plunge into the old swimming and a bountiful dinner, regularly scheduled games were again resumed.

Frog hunting has become quite an extensive sport at camp and some of the largest catches of the season have been seen.

Due to the extremely hot weather at camp, swimming periods have been extended.

GOVERNOR MAY SPEAK AT FAIR

Pinchot May Attend New Castle Fair During September As Guest

More than a fair possibility of Governor Gifford Pinchot attending the New Castle Fair this year is seen in a letter from him answering an invitation to speak here on one of the days of the fair. If he comes it will be either on September 17th or September 18th.

Recently a committee of directors of the fair wrote to His Excellency, inviting him to come to New Castle and speak at the fair. His answer was that he would not commit himself definitely just yet, but that he would make every effort possible to come and to address the crowd.

If the governor does accept, the fair officials plan to make the day of his appearance the largest day of the week. They will feature whatever day he can come, and if he does come it would probably mean that thousands of people would be in the fair grounds for his address.

THREE PERSONS HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT HERE

Several Accidents Are Reported In Which People Are Injured

Three persons were injured last night, when the machines of Merle Ross, 714 Cumberland avenue, enroute east on West Washington street, and L. A. Valiensi, 324 South Jefferson street, enroute west on West Washington street, and making a left hand turn into Atlantic avenue, came together.

The injured were Merle Ross, who sustained an injury of the head, Mr. Valiensi who had his lower lip cut and his ribs injured and Mrs. Valiensi, who sustained a scalp wound and injuries about the ribs. The injured were taken to the Jameson Memorial hospital, where their injuries were attended to.

After being struck by the Valiensi car, the Ross machine hit and damaged a curb light.

Robert Emmerich, 11, of 4 Clenmore Boulevard, was injured last evening, when struck by the car of Cecil D. Wooley, 346 East Washington street, on East Washington street, near Butler avenue. The boy stepped from the south side of Washington street into the cartway and was hit by the left headlight of the Wooley car. He held onto the machine and did not fall to the street. Mr. Wooley placed him in his machine and took him to a physician and then to the Jameson Memorial hospital. He was hurt on the right elbow and the left side of the head, also over the left eye. While his injuries were not serious, he was held in the hospital until this morning, when X-ray pictures were to be taken to determine the full extent of his injuries.

Edna P. Weitz of 102 West Madison avenue, reported that she was enroute east on Madison avenue at Scanlon Alley, when Johnny Reamer came out of the alley on his bicycle and ran into her machine. The bicycle was damaged but the boy escaped injury.

Clarence Denny of English avenue, R. D. No. 2, reported that he was driving his truck south on Jefferson street, when a car bearing Pennsylvania license 36903 in front of him stopped suddenly and his truck bumped into the other machine. There was little or no damage done.

Margaret Garver of 489 East Washington street, reported that she was driving west on East Long avenue at Arlington avenue, when a car bearing Ohio license 796-955 came out of Arlington avenue, without making the proper signal and the machines came together. Some damage was done.

The new motor code recently approved by the Governor rules the "hitch-hiker" off the highways of this state.

Man Wounds His Brother; Takes Life With Gun

Feud Between Wheeling Brothers, Partners In Business, Ends Fatally

DEATH OF FATHER STARTED HATRED

(International News Service)

WHEELING, W. Va. July 30.—The bark of gunfire wrote finis to an enduring hatred between two brothers who, though they worked side by side in their little confectionery store, never spoke to each other.

Today Charles Durst lay seriously wounded in the Ohio Valley hospital. His brother, Frank, is dead, victim of a bullet fired from the same gun with which he had shot Charles.

For years the wordless feud had smouldered to dormant fashion. The climax came with kaleidoscopic rapidity. Their store was thronged with patrons late yesterday. The two brothers met at the entrance. There was a scuffle. Shots rang out. Panic stricken patrons saw Frank, a smoking gun in his hand, pursue Charles into a nearby drug store. Charles raced through the store and out into the street.

Commits Suicide.

Frank placed the weapon in his mouth and pulled the trigger. It missed fire . He gazed at it wonderingly, shook his head, and pressed the trigger.

This time he crumpled to the floor, killed instantly.

The long feud dated back to the death of the brothers' father at which time they inherited the confectionery store founded by the father, friends said.

Despite the hatred each held for the other, the store kept them in physical proximity. The hatred, however, was too deep to be overcome by the proximity.

Though business associates, they never spoke. Trusted clerks acted as intermediaries when business messages from one to the other were unavoidable.

FRANK MERRIWELL'S SCHOOLDAYS — DUTY FIRST — BY BURT L. STANDISH

County Spends Huge Sum For Poor Relief

Total Fund Administered During Year Of 1930 Amounted To $132,474.78

COUNTY HOMES TAKES ALMOST HALF OF SUM

Lawrence county expended $132,474.78 for poor relief during the year of 1930, the annual auditors report issued Tuesday shows.

Of this amount, almost $51,276.93 was expended in the interests of the county home, redemption of bonds, payment of interest, etc, amounting to $27,771.72; while $23,505.20 was expended in the maintenance and operation of the home.

Maintenance of the county insane, which is also included under the poor fund, cost the taxpayers of the county, $29,496.91.

Outdoor relief, or assistance rendered in the homes of those who were unable to work, cost $49,541.12 in 1930.

Groceries were purchased for those in need, amounting to $27,372.90, while coal and fuel was furnished in the sum of $5,746.53. Doctor's bills and drugs cost the county $3,756.43, while the salary and expense of the welfare office amounted to $4,431.78. These were the largest items in the outdoor relief fund.

County Corn Crop Will Be Largest Here In Many Years

With wheat cut and some of it already threshed, hay harvested and oats partly cut, Lawrence county farmers are looking forward to corn cutting. Indications are that the corn crop will be the best in years. Corn requires warm weather and moisture. There has been plenty of hot weather and sufficient moisture to insure well filled ears of corn. All crops raised on the farm and garden have been good this year. The only disappointment to the farmer is the low price of his products. Owing to the low price of what it is probable that the acreage will be considerably reduced this year.

DOMESTIC ARGUMENT ENDED BY DEATH

BENTLEYVILLE, Pa., July 30.—Theories pointing to foul play in the sudden death of Mrs. Mary Oshetska, 69, were eliminated when autopsy findings showed that death was due to natural causes. County Detectives were called to investigate when the aged woman suddenly succumbed during an alleged domestic argument in her home. Death was attributed to heart failure.

ROAMING

With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

These family reunions are great things, except that now and then a few uninvited guests make their appearance and spoil things. Among these uninvited guests of such a dinner last night was a group of very efficient yellow jackets who made every effort to preempt the foodstuffs and declare them theirs by right of conquest.

Now a yellow jacket is a pretty enough insect, when he is mounted on a display board in a botanical exhibit. But as a guest at a reunion dinner he is about as welcome as a whart on a Follies girl's nose.

The result was a two handed action on the part of the guests, one hand was used to spear a gob of meat loaf and other edibles as they passed, and the other was used to take a healthy swing at the yellow jackets as they buzzed their unwelcome way across the festive board

Heard some group singing last night wafted through a thousand trees that sounded more than ordinarily good. The Heinz House camp is now filled with girls from Pittsburgh and just before bedtime they have a fireside sing. Sitting in another camp, half a mile away the stilly air carried the sound of their voices through the trees and the effect was beautiful.

There are other musicians out along the Slippery Rock. A big screech owl comes out every night to entertain with his throaty music that hasn't much melody but lots of carrying power. He doesn't sing good, but he sings loud. And now and then the bark of a fox deep in the forest adds a staccato note to the music.

And all the time the moon filters down through the leaves of the beeches and oaks and dogwoods, casting a ghostly radiance on the underbrush, and causing ordinary mortals to get all sentimental like.

Down near the Armstrong bridge a group of Ellwood men have a camp located in one of the most noval spots you ever saw. There is a point of land that juts out from a steep bluff. A tiny little stream, cold and clear runs through the gully on one side, to meet the Slippery Rock. On the other side of the tiny brooklet is a bluff that goes back before the glacial age. Down in the bottom, sealed in there for centuries are fossils, relics of the days when the world was young.

Back of the camp site another hill rises, with heavy trees covering the spot almost like a tent. The sun seldom ever gets through, and only an exceptional rain ever wets the place to any extent. But at night, according to Johnny Krestel, you need three blankets, all wool, if you want to enjoy any sleep.

Saw a three way accident along the Ellwood Road last night that pointed two lessons. One is that it doesn't pay to dart out around other cars in front, and the other is that it doesn't pay to trail a fellow too close. Both of these things had happened and a lad in a new car had the front end of his bus mashed in by the chap turning out from back of a bus, and then had his back end crumpled when a driver trailing him too close couldn't stop.

As usual, the driver who was least responsible for all the trouble got most of the damage. With several people narrowly escaping serious injury.

Somebody has killed twenty two elms out on the Road of Remembrance, along the Perry Highway, and apparently it was a well defined plot to destroy all those lovely trees set out by the Lawrence County Garden Club. Such vandalism turns a fellow's mind back to the days of the rack and the thumbscrew as punishment for such high handed outrage.

Whoever did it, and there is a growing suspicion that the law is about ready to put the finger on him, will find little sympathy among decent citizens. That type of a yegg would steal a baby's milk, and ranks with the ghouls who infest earthquake areas looking for jewelry on the hands of dead victims.

It may be the heat and if it is and he is caught, a two year vacation in a nice cool jail might relive his temperature.

Cement Plant Fire Loss Between $700 And $800 Is Report

Loss in the Lehigh Portland Cement packing house fire last Sunday night was between $700 and $800 William H. Kleckner, superintendent, said today. The exact loss will not be known until a complete check is finished by workmen who will count the number of bags of cement damaged in the fire, it is reported.

The fire broke out in the packing house of No. 3 plant and necessitated the calling of city fire apparatus.
